That 'startup mindset' – to innovate, to adapt, and to build for the long term – still defines us today

PAULS CĀLĪTIS
Interim CEO and COO, airBaltic

Dear airBaltic passengers,
The celebrations of airBaltic's 30th anniversary have just begun and will continue throughout this month and into early October. Yet every milestone invites reflection. I would like to invite you to take a step back and recall how it all started, and how it is going today.

When airBaltic was founded in 1995, the world looked quite different. Latvia had only recently regained its independence and urgently needed strong air connections to strengthen its economic and historical cultural ties with Europe and beyond. With just a few aircraft and a bold vision, airBaltic was established to serve this role, providing vital connectivity and becoming a key driver of regional development.

I've had the unique opportunity to witness this journey from day one – first as a pilot, and later as part of the leadership team. In the early years, we were a small team working closely across departments, solving challenges with creativity and determination. That 'startup mindset' – to innovate, to adapt, and to build for the long term – still defines us today.

Three decades later, we have come a long way. airBaltic now operates a fleet of 50 Airbus A220-300 aircraft and connects the Baltic region to more than 80 destinations and 130 routes across Europe, the Middle East, North Africa, and the Caucasus. From humble beginnings, we have grown into the leading airline in the Baltics and one of Europe's fastest-growing carriers. Over the past 30 years, we have proudly carried more than 65 million passengers.

The signature lime-green tails of airBaltic have become a symbol of progress – not only for the airline, but for the Baltic states as a whole. They represent the freedom, ambition, and innovation that have shaped this region since the 1990s. For many, airBaltic is more than an airline; it is a trusted travel partner and a source of Baltic pride.

But our impact goes far beyond aviation. airBaltic contributes significantly to the Baltic economies, creating jobs, supporting tourism, and strengthening international competitiveness. Our success belongs to the region as much as it does to the company.

As we mark this anniversary, I feel deep gratitude to everyone who has been part of this journey: our passengers, our partners, and most of all, our dedicated team of already nearly 3000 people. airBaltic is not just an airline. It's a community built on trust, resilience, and shared ambition.

Thank you for flying with us, believing in us, and growing with us. Here's to the next chapter – shaped together, with the same spirit that started it all.

Pauls Cālītis
Interim CEO and COO

A SUNSET CRUISE

There's something undeniably magical about Riga in September. The city glows with the soft light of late summer, and while the days are still warm, the evenings are pleasantly cool. Now is the perfect time to swap the cobblestones for open water and experience the city from a new perspective, for example, from the deck of a yacht.

Whether you're celebrating a special occasion or simply enjoying a relaxed evening, this is one of the finest leisure experiences in the Baltic region. A three-hour cruise along the Daugava River and out into the Gulf of Riga allows you to see all the best sights. And as the sun sets, the water reflects the sky in shimmering shades of gold, pink, and purple, creating a spectacular natural display.

Pack a picnic with your favourite snacks and a chilled bottle of white wine, and make sure you wear shoes with light-coloured soles that are suitable for the deck of a boat. To explore a variety of yacht rental options, visit arjahtu.lv.

EVENT

European championship

From August 27 to September 14, Riga will be one of four host cities for the FIBA EuroBasket tournament, which is the European men's basketball championship. The event will attract basketball enthusiasts from all over Europe, and Riga will also host the prestigious final phase of the tournament. All Group A matches (Portugal, Estonia, Latvia, Turkey, Serbia, and the Czech Republic) as well as the highly anticipated final phase will take place at Xiaomi Arena. Fans who are unable to get tickets can enjoy a free fan zone offering fun activities, game-watching parties, and many basketball-related surprises.

MUSIC

Bridging time

Late summer is the perfect time to enjoy a modern interpretation of classical music. This season, music connoisseurs have been drawn to the album Echoes of Latvia, performed by violinist Laura Zariņa and pianist Agnese Egliņa. Featuring works by contemporary and classical Latvian women composers, the album provides listeners a deeply emotional experience. Bridging the past and the present, it invites you to pause, reflect, and immerse yourself in memories, soulful emotions, and renewal. Several new compositions capture the fresh sound of Latvia and offer a distinctive take on modern classical music.

PLACE

Design experience

Riga's restaurant scene is exciting, and the design in the city's restaurants is undeniably beautiful. In this regard, one of the latest gems is Baltā Kaza, which has just opened in the Old Town. As well as offering contemporary Latvian cuisine, it showcases modern Latvian design. If you could capture the essence of the city's design scene in one place, it would look like this. Everything from the furniture and lighting fixtures to the tableware and interior accents features work by local designers. The restaurant also resides in a building that's a protected cultural monument.

DŽEMMA SKULME EXHIBITION

Until January 25

Honouring one of Latvia's most outstanding painters on the 100th anniversary of her birth, which falls on September 20, the Latvian National Museum of Art presents the exhibition Džemma. Džemma Skulme's (1925–2019) distinctive style and her belief in the important role of art and culture were always guided by fundamental human values – a spiritual height rooted in the nation's heritage. Skulme's character and public stance had a significant impact in Latvia during the Soviet era and after the country regained independence. The exhibition is more than a centenary tribute; her reflections on life and art resonate with renewed relevance today.

ARVO CHAMBER MUSIC EVENT

September 11, 12

For two evenings at the Hanzas Perons cultural space, the 'Arvo' chamber music event will celebrate the music of renowned Estonian composer Arvo Pärt, who turns 90 on September 11. The performances are set to take place in a space designed by artist Monika Korpa. Pianist Reinis Zariņš, the Perons Quartet, the Savvaļas Oktets cello ensemble, and other talented musicians rarely encountered performing together will surround the audience in a shared hush of sound, creating intimate and unforgettable musical moments. From sublime works of choral sacred music to mesmerising minimalist instrumental pieces, Pärt's music is as accessible as it is profound.

Quote of the month

'Stop thinking about art works as objects and start thinking about them as triggers for experiences.'

Let this quote by legendary musician and visual artist Brian Eno inspire you to attend the Survival Kit international contemporary art festival. The 16th edition of this event is taking place in Riga from August 30 to September 28. This year's exhibition, titled House of See-More and curated by the local curators group Slavs and Tatars and Michał Grzegorzek, brings the Grīziņdārzs creative urban space at Zemitāna iela 9 to life.

EVERYTHING YOU ARE NOT SUPPOSED TO DO EXHIBITION

Until September 28

Tradition meets rebellion at the Radvila Palace Museum of Art. Everything You Are Not Supposed to Do showcases 21st-century Lithuanian female artists alongside masterpieces of 16th- to 19th-century Western European art, creating a dialogue that's at once playful and provocative. These contemporary works drawn from the Lithuanian National Museum of Art are not merely objects; they carry ideas, memories, and visions of what a nation can be. Tapestries, photographs, and bold modern creations share the same space, inviting you to rethink history, culture, and the rules we're 'not supposed to' break.

Through the lens of time

Legendary photographer David Burnett brings history to Riga.

This September, Riga becomes a gateway to some of the most powerful moments in modern history, captured not by words but through the lens of one of the world's most legendary photojournalists. From September 1 to 14, the Ola Foundation is hosting a rare solo exhibition by American legend David Burnett (b. 1946), whose evocative photographs of world leaders, cultural icons, and historical turning points have graced the pages of Time, Life, The New Yorker, and National Geographic. With a career spanning over five decades and more than 100 countries, Burnett invites visitors not just to look at his images, but to feel them.

Burnett's name may not always be in the headlines, but his photographs are. He's been there for it all: Olympic triumphs, political revolutions, personal tragedies, and intimate portraits of the most influential figures of our time. Bob Marley. Princess Diana. Barack Obama. Ronald Reagan. His work isn't just iconic – it's emotional, timeless, and deeply human.

'Sometimes,' Burnett says, 'there's a power and meaning to a moment that transcends your understanding as a photographer. You feel it must be important, you hope you have a picture (in the film era it was never so clear-cut as it is with the current digital cameras), but there's something magic when it all comes together, and you do your job as the photographer.'

That sensitivity, that intuition, is what sets Burnett apart. He doesn't just photograph events; he captures the soul of a moment. His style blends classic journalism with artistic experimentation, often using tilt-shift lenses and vintage film cameras to create images that feel as poetic as they are powerful.

And his passion? Still burning strong. 'I started taking pictures when I was 16,' he says. 'It has let me travel to 100 countries doing stories that, hopefully, are shared with others. Like most photographers, I think I'm drawn to see the world through a camera, trying to keep those moments which make life interesting. It's almost like I have to photograph. It's a very elemental desire.'

The exhibition in Riga offers a unique opportunity to see some of Burnett's most defining work, including photographs that have shaped how we remember the past five decades. For anyone who loves photography, storytelling, or simply wants to feel connected to the world in a new way, this is a must-see.

'If you have to explain why a photo is special,' Burnett says, 'it probably isn't. Photography is the language that needs no words, and whether the photographer speaks a language that I understand or we have nothing in common but our vision, I can well understand what they're saying when I see their photograph.'

Make time. Be moved. Let history look you in the eye.

The Line, an exhibition at the Heidi Horten Collection, explores the fundamental element of art expression through a display of signature pieces of 20th-century art (September 19 – March 8; Hanuschgasse 3; hortencollection.com). The line plays multiple roles in composition, from defining form and tracing boundaries to separating as well as connecting objects in a painting, thus creating illusion or direct reality. The exhibition highlights more than 50 artists who used the line as a source of expression, gesture, structure, or concept, whether perfectly calculated and geometrically precise or spontaneous and free. Among the best-known names exhibited are Jean-Michel Basquiat, Lucio Fontana, Lucian Freud, Donald Judd, Wassily Kandinsky, Paul Klee, Roy Lichtenstein, Henri Matisse, Pablo Picasso, Sigmar Polke, Jackson Pollock, and Andy Warhol. An expansive site-specific installation by Chiharu Shiota complements the showcase.

Celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of The Waltz King, Johann Strauss II: New Dimensions at the Johann Strauss Museum invites visitors to embark on an immersive musical journey dedicated to the composer (Friedrichstraße 7; johannstraussmuseum.at). The 900 square metres of exhibition space are packed with 3D sound systems and interactive exhibits. Throughout this art- and tech-filled audial journey lasting 75 minutes, visitors dive deep into the life and legacy of Strauss, discovering details of his life and creative challenges together with political and social events of his time. The highlight of the show is a composing machine – visitors select notes on the screen to compose their own waltz, which they can then download. The exhibition's audio guide is available in eight languages, and all ages are welcome.

The Hotel Astoria Vienna from Curio Collection by Hilton is the newest addition to the Austrian capital's hospitality scene (Kärntner Straße 32-34; hilton.com; from EUR 330). Located in the heart of the city's 1st district and close to St. Stephen's Cathedral, it features a blend of classy design, historical background, and modern comfort across its 125 rooms and welcoming public spaces. The Art Deco-style corner building on the bustling shopping street dates back to 1912, when it also housed a hotel. Alongside a traditional breakfast buffet, the hotel's Grand Salon also serves traditional Viennese delicacies, such as strudels and Kaiserschmarrn pancakes. The chic lobby area accommodates the Astoria Bar, which serves local beers, wines, and cocktails blended according to historical recipes.

◂ Exhibition view from Women Artists 1300–1900

Women Artists 1300–1900 at the National Gallery Prague presents a historical overview of female artists across six centuries (until November 2; Waldstein Riding School, Valdštejnská 3; ngprague.cz). The exhibition pays special attention to their working environments, social frameworks, and the themes and influences that shaped their visual language. The showcase focuses on women artists who were active in Central Europe, the Netherlands, and present-day Italy and on how they gradually gained access to art academies, took control of their careers, and became established professionally and socially in a still male-dominated art world. Some medieval paintings reveal the daring fantasies as well as visually encoded maternal desires of women, while works of art from the Renaissance period could reflect violence and the consequences of intrigue. In the 17th and 18th centuries, women began to travel more and achieve success in the field of science, and eventually several prominent female painters emerged.

The Dvořák Prague festival celebrates the legacy of the world-renowned Czech composer Antonín Dvořák (1841–1904), whose symphonic music and operas are among the pillars of global musical heritage (September 5–23; dvorakovapraha.cz). The 18th edition of this annual event gathers world-class orchestras and outstanding soloists in a festive atmosphere of celebration with several thematic programmes, including the Chamber and Recital Series, For the Future, and the Soirée at the Bořislavka Centre, where a relaxed and informal atmosphere meets festive symphonic evenings. Extra concerts are dedicated to the Romantic oeuvre of Robert and Clara Schumann. Among the festival's guests are the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and the London Symphony Orchestra. Famed conductor Alain Altinoglu leads the concert on September 6 with works by Sibelius and Shostakovich.

Střelecký ostrov, which translates to Archer's Island, is a favourite local spot for nature. With the waters of the Vltava River flowing around it, this narrow piece of land and recreational paradise was once accessible only by ferry, until a bridge was constructed in 1841 that connected it to the mainland. The island's appealing central location serves as a blooming backdrop for various open-air events throughout the year, such as the Wine and Food Festival on Střelecký Island (Prague 1; FB/strelak.strelecky.ostrov). Accompanied by live music, the event runs every weekend, Friday to Sunday, throughout the summer until September 21. The island's paths then fill with tents serving delicious street food reflecting Czech and global cuisine as well as a selection of local wines and craft beers.

The Ludwig Museum – Museum of Contemporary Art presents a new exhibition called Big Bang: Expanding Collection Horizons (September 5 – January 3; Komor Marcell utca 1; ludwigmuseum.hu). Set in chronological order and arranged in twelve separate sections, this show with more than 80 works of art covers a period of about 70 years. It also acts as the museum's self-reflection on the history, evolution, and potential of collecting. It explores such subjects as the influence of pop culture on art, the concept as a work of art, and the essence of hyperrealism, which goes beyond the technical skill of the artist. Visitors can also learn about the role of street art and graffiti in contemporary art as well as about ecological art, which puts the focus on environmental awareness. The exhibition features work by Georg Baselitz, Joseph Beuys, Futura 2000, Roy Lichtenstein, Pablo Picasso, and dozens of bright new names in contemporary art to discover.

Taking place against the picturesque historical backdrop of the city's central landmark, Buda Castle, the Budapest Wine Festival celebrates the gourmet legacy of Hungary's gastronomic scene (September 11–14; aborfesztival.hu). Stalls set up along the beautiful sunset-lit banks of the Danube River offer a curated gastronomic selection ranging from high-quality street food to local specialties and gourmet bites. With centuries-old winemaking traditions, nearly every wine region in Hungary is presented at this event – 200 wineries in total – together with a rich wine-tasting programme and background stories told by passionate professionals. Winemakers from South America have been invited as special guests. Concerts, a series of thematic events, and interactive workshops complement this weekend of wine.

Boho Hotel Budapest is a four-star luxury hotel with 52 rooms and 12 suites ranging from small and intimate to a spacious 130 square metres, all designed in a soft colour palette and framed in light wood and natural materials (Mikszáth Kálmán tér 3; hotelbohobudapest.com; from EUR 201). The attic rooms feature massive wooden beams that reflect the character of the historic building, which is located in Budapest's District VII near a charming square surrounded by a mix of historical and modern architecture. Echoing the city's thermal bath culture, the Boho features a private spa with a Jacuzzi, sauna, and hot stone therapy. A gym is available as well.

The Modernism of Faro

The coastal jewel of southern Portugal reveals a rich portfolio of statement mid-century architecture.

The sunny Algarve region in the south of Portugal offers vacationers a complete package of paradise: Atlantic breezes, sandy beaches, natural wonders, and mouthwatering cuisine. Apart from that, its capital Faro delights architecture tourism enthusiasts and urban photographers. Against the serene background of the Ria Formosa lagoon, its Old Town blends Moorish and Baroque influences. Yet beyond the ancient walls, the largest part of the city was built in the 20th century in two dominant styles: Art Deco and Southern Modernism.

Faro boasts nearly 500 modernist treasures, which is one of the largest numbers in southern Europe. Built between the 1930s and 70s, they include everything from edgy high-rises and office buildings to vintage hotels, pastel-coloured villas, and apartment blocks featuring spacious horizontal balconies, look-through stairwells, and geometric decor. You'll also find that flat-roofed houses with rooftop terraces and cross-ventilated volumes are often modestly adorned with patterned tiles.

As local experts describe it, Faro's modernism is a mix between the classic European modernism cultivated by Le Corbusier and the 'tropical modernism' that emerged in Latin America, plus a pinch of glamour borrowed from the West Coast modernism of North America. The buildings were mostly designed by local architects, who adapted this dominant 20th-century style to the cultural and climatic environment of Portugal's south. One of the movement's brightest figures was Faro-born Manuel Gomes da Costa (1921–2016). He took particular inspiration from the cobogó, a type of partition wall made of openwork concrete blocks. Loaned from Brazilian architecture, this ornate element creates an interplay of light and shadow and also provides ventilation and the cooling of air.

The buildings in Faro embody an honest minimalism with a twist. Some of these mid-century gems have been finely preserved, while others patiently await attentive renovation. Several are being given a new lease of life. For example, discover the Aeromar Hotel, a signature coastal gem facing the ocean. The Modernist hotel, for its part, is set in the former offices of a shipping company that have been freshly restored with functional, minimalist interiors.

Following their passion for architecture, Angélique and Christophe de Oliveira, who stand behind The Modernist's revitalisation, launched Faro Modernist Weekend in 2022. This yearly festival takes place in November and celebrates the local modernist architecture, offering thematic guided walks as well as talks, discussions, and backstage visits to private homes. To discover this urban heritage at your own pace, consider downloading 'The Modernist Architecture Walking Tour' at PocketSights. It offers a selection of 39 non-touristy stops with brief descriptions that let you explore Faro's urban gems like a local.

Andrejsala quarter
'This is currently my favourite neighbourhood in Riga. It has developed tremendously over the past several years and has plenty of welcoming cafés and restaurants where one can dine while enjoying views of the Daugava River. Andrejsala is also the location of many open-air concerts that one can attend in person or watch from a boat on the river.'
Andrejsala

Ozo Golf Club
'Whenever I have some free time, I play golf, and late summer and early autumn are the best times for that. Riga has numerous picturesque golf courses, my favourite being Ozo Golf Club on the banks of Ķīšezers Lake. The green scenery, the proximity to nature, and the game itself lets me clear my mind and relax. In addition, it's a great way to spend time actively with my wife and son.'

'I'm not a big fan of crowds and public places, so a restaurant's ambience is important. Restaurant B7 on Ausekļa iela has the perfect combination of friendly but simple service, mouthwatering food, and creative chefs. I always order the season's delicacies that the head chef recommends, and I'm consistently amazed by the results.'

Āgenskalns Market
'Cooking, by the way, is one of my passions, and I always choose to use fresh Latvian produce. The recently renovated Āgenskalns Market is a reliable and also aesthetically pleasing choice. The vendors are responsive, and there's plenty of fresh meat and vegetables on offer. If I'm too busy for cooking myself, the second floor of the market offers a great range of street-food vendors. From pizzas and pancakes to Asian cuisine... everyone will find something to their taste there.'

Discover Langhe

Where wine, family, and misty hills make for Italy's most intimate escape.

Often compared to Tuscany, the Langhe region holds its own distinct charm. Here, there's a sense of quiet intimacy, a closeness between the land and the people, and an authenticity untouched by mass tourism. It's a place for those who savour life slowly – one sip, one sunset, one story at a time.

The outline of a grandfather's vineyard plot tattooed next to one's collarbone – it's in tender gestures, rituals, and warm memories such as these that the youngest members of Langhe's legendary Albeisa winemaking families, now in their twenties, carry their inheritance. As infants, these children receive a family blessing: a ritual in which a finger dipped in deep-red Dolcetto wine is placed in the baby's mouth, followed by a protective symbol traced onto the child's forehead with the wine. This soft, velvety drink is a local emblem of love, belonging, and the taste of home.

The pride of the region, however, is the rich and powerful Barolo, long hailed as the king of Italian wines. Once the favourite of Italy's royalty, today it remains a prized jewel among collectors and sommeliers worldwide, its deep garnet colour and complex bouquet reflecting the very soul of Langhe.

This is merely a small glimpse into the wealth of tradition that thrives in Langhe, a region where winemaking is not just a profession but a way of life. Nestled in Italy's Piedmont region just a two-hour drive from Milan, Langhe is a land of undulating hills, storybook villages, medieval castles, and hazelnut-lined roads. It's a place where time seems to slow down, where every meal is a celebration, and where every glass of wine carries the weight of generations.

Langhe is particularly enchanting in autumn, when the hills blaze in shades of amber and crimson, the vines become heavy with ripe Nebbiolo grapes, and the towns come alive with truffle fairs and harvest festivals. At dawn, the famous Piedmont mist rolls gently through the valleys, lending an ethereal touch to an already magical landscape.

EXPERIENCES NOT TO MISS – FOR YOUR SOUL AND PALATE

Wine tasting
Even if you're not a seasoned wine connoisseur, a visit to one of the many family-run wineries in Langhe is an experience not to miss. Here, you'll meet passionate winemakers, hear their stories, and learn about traditional wine production methods passed down from generation to generation. A perfect place to start is the Albeisa Consortium, a respected association dedicated to preserving Langhe's rich wine culture and upholding the distinctiveness of the iconic Albeisa bottle. In recent years, it has taken an important step forward by hosting wine tastings at its main hub in the town of Alba and curating unique tours through the region.

Truffle hunting
Truffles are among the world's most prized delicacies, and Langhe is one of the rare regions where every edible black and white variety grows. Truffle hunting is a cherished tradition here, with tours available for visitors eager to join skilled hunters and their Lagotto Romagnolo dogs in search of these aromatic treasures. The legendary white truffle, found in autumn, is the star of the season. The most exceptional specimens are sold at the famous Alba White Truffle World Auction, attracting chefs and collectors from around the world.

Cooking classes
Did you know the global Slow Food movement started in Langhe? Founded by Carlo Petrini in the late 1980s as a protest against fast food, it celebrates local, seasonal, and sustainable cuisine. You'll find this spirit alive at local markets, which offer cheeses, hazelnuts, honey, and much more. For an unforgettable experience, book a cooking class with Michelin-starred chef Marc Lanteri, a classically trained French chef with Italian roots. Held in his stunning restaurant overlooking the vineyards, the class showcases fresh, seasonal Piedmontese dishes and the rich culinary traditions of this region.

ROZEWINES

EUROPE'S LARGEST COLLECTION OF GEORGIAN WINES

We are an importer and distributor of high-quality Georgian wines from proven autochthonous vineyards. Our team works with small family wineries that guarantee the uniqueness of their wines. The Roze Wines wine list was prepared by Tamaz Tamazashvili, Best Sommelier of Georgia 2018. We choose wine based on the principle that our customers and ourselves should like it. Through direct import, Roze Wines controls the quality of products at all stages of transportation and storage. We are personally familiar with the winemakers whose wines we sell. We are not interested in abstruse scientific reasoning and formulaically banal 'factory' alcohol. We are interested in the author's wine – centuries-old traditions, exceptional aromatics bouquets and unique authenticity. Our dream is to introduce the world to unique Georgian wines and the people who make them.

He's also the author of the bestselling Madeira Travel Guide, which is packed with local insights, handpicked spots, and photo inspiration. After years of exploring the island with his camera, Kru now runs private photography tours, helping others capture Madeira's landscapes while passing on what he's learned along the way. His work focuses on the island's culture, natural beauty, and the lesser-known places that make it special.

Ribeira da Janela

My secret spot

'The Fanal Forest is one of the most-photographed places in Madeira, yet it still has many hidden corners for those willing to explore beyond the obvious. Most visitors stop at the initial cluster of trees near the parking lot, missing out on the best parts: the tranquil silence, breathtaking hilltop views, and the profound, eerie beauty found deeper within the forest. This forest is one of the last surviving laurel forests in the world, with some trees over 700 years old. Due to its location along a mountain ridge, it's often enveloped in rapidly moving clouds, which makes each visit a unique experience. The changing light, moody atmosphere, and ancient trees make the Fanal a dream for photographers and a place that continually draws me back.'

Other locations to check out

- Near the Fanal Forest, Ribeira da Janela features dramatic sea stacks shaped by volcanic forces and crashing waves. Their surreal appearance even earned them a spot in the latest Star Wars series.
- The Porto Moniz Natural Pools are lava-rock pools filled with clear seawater and are perfect for a refreshing swim. Formed by volcanic activity, they sit against a backdrop of cliffs and Atlantic waves.
- Seixal is a cliffside village known for its black-sand beach, where green mountains meet the Atlantic Ocean. Waterfalls tumble down nearby cliffs, and the calm waters are perfect for a swim or a peaceful walk.

As the city's 750th anniversary year nears its end, it's the perfect time to pay a visit.

WHERE TO STAY

Perched at the tip of Java-eiland, where ships once departed for Jakarta, the glass-and-steel Hotel Jakarta houses 200 Indonesian-inspired rooms and suites overlooking the IJ waterway. This sustainable four-star stay is wrapped in bamboo wood panelling, with a jungle at the heart of it all. Rooms are spacious, with floor-to-ceiling windows and subtle nods to the hotel's East Indies connection. Spa facilities include a sauna, and Café Jakarta on the ground floor has carved out its own reputation as a reliable spot for impeccable rijsttafel and other Indonesian staples.

WHERE TO EAT

Opened this spring in a quiet nook in Old West, BonBurger serves what many call the best burgers in Amsterdam. The menu keeps it tight with four variations: classic smash, fried chicken, and two veggie options, all served in a glossy, golden brioche and best enjoyed with a canalside view. Behind it are the folks from Bottleshop, the much-loved East-side wine bar that recently welcomed chef Omar Sánchez, who's known for weaving bold Mexican flavours into his plates. The same undeniably cool vibe and sensibility carries over to the wine list here, but BonBurger also has cocktails, oysters, and a few sharp snacks to round things out. No bookings.

WHERE TO SHOP

Born in Amsterdam, We Are Labels is all about wearability without watering down style. Its in-house brands – WAL and the punchier Nous Sommes Labels – anchor the offering, but they're far from the only draw. Alongside them you'll find Komono shades, Birkenstock, Saucony, and a handpicked lineup of indie names that stick to the same quality-first, trend-light ethos. We Are Labels has several stores around the city: on central Raadhuisstraat, on the Haarlemmerstraat shopping street, on Spiegelstraat, and two in De Pijp, one of which is an outlet.

A CLASSIC NOT TO MISS

Amsterdam is a pure marvel for architecture aficionados. Step into some of the city's gems during Open Monuments Day, a nation-wide event taking place on September 13 and 14. More than 50 historic buildings in Amsterdam will open their doors for the curious. Entry is free, and many of the locations are only accessible on this one weekend. The list includes everything from the 17th-century Plantation Palace to Fo Guang Shan He Hua Temple, a Chinese Buddhist site in the middle of Chinatown. Other stops include the monumental Gashouder at the old Westergasfabriek complex, the decorative House with the Noses on Singel, hidden churches, and clandestine rooms. It's an Amsterdam few have seen before!

WHY NOT

Plunge into the communal sweating trend at Badhus, a bathhouse that has transformed the former warehouse behind Café Soleil in Amsterdam Noord. Choose the Social Sauna setup with two shared heat rooms, a cold plunge, outdoor shower, and a warehouse lounge that hums with quiet post-sauna chatter. Or go the solo route with a private sauna pod floating quietly with room for two to twelve. The mood is laid-back, with more focus on wellbeing than luxe fluff. Open Wednesday through Sunday. Another option is the Nordic-coded Kuuma sauna, also in the Noord district.

Take your friends

....TO THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ROAD ON THE FRENCH RIVIERA

The Corniche d'Or is a journey for the senses, offering beautiful beaches and a wide range of outdoor activities.

Fly to Nice from €99* one way

This breathtaking coastal road runs for around 30 kilometres between Cannes and Saint-Raphaël.

The area offers a variety of activities, including rock climbing, hiking, and mountain biking.

There are plenty of beaches where you can stop along the way.

Have you ever read Françoise Sagan's legendary novel Bonjour Tristesse? First published in 1954, when Sagan was just 18, it quickly became a literary sensation. More than just a coming-of-age story, it portrays emotional complexity and youthful disillusionment against the sultry backdrop of the French Riviera. The atmosphere lingers long after you reach the final page: the pine-scented air, the summer heat shimmering off the rocks, and the deep, hypnotic blue of the Mediterranean Sea. Nowhere does this world feel more alive than along the Corniche d'Or.

Also known as the Golden Corniche, this breathtaking coastal road runs for around 30 kilometres between Cannes and Saint-Raphaël. Built in the early 1900s at the dawn of modern tourism and the rise of the automobile, it was the brainchild of the Touring Club de France. The club's vision was clear: to open up the wild, untamed coastline of the Esterel Massif to travellers in search of beauty. And it succeeded spectacularly.

More than a century later, the Corniche d'Or remains one of the most breathtaking drives in southern France. The road winds gracefully along cliffs carved from vibrant red volcanic rock, which plummet dramatically into the sea below. This outdoor enthusiast's paradise offers activities such as rock climbing, hiking, horse riding, and mountain biking. Numerous trails wind through the area, inviting visitors to explore the rich, preserved landscapes adorned with lush, colourful, fragrant vegetation.

If you're staying in Nice, it's worth hiring a car to explore this unspoilt stretch of the Riviera that exudes a quiet romance. There are plenty of places to stop along the way, and it's not hard to find a quiet beach where you can while away an hour or two – or even a whole afternoon – simply watching the sea. Don't be surprised if you see locals with picnic baskets and paperbacks, as this is a favourite place for them, too.

The beaches are unspoilt yet pebbly, so make sure you bring suitable footwear, towels, and a picnic. And be aware that some of the beaches are nudist-only, so choose the one that suits you best. The reward, however, is total immersion in the sunlit, emotional, and subtly wild landscape that Sagan described so vividly.

The grand return

The Grand Palais in Paris has reopened with renewed splendour after a century-defining restoration.

Words by Olga Dolina

Fly to Paris
from €79*
one way

It was more than a century ago that Parisians and visitors from around the world first witnessed the beauty of this architectural marvel. Nestled between the Champs-Élysées and the Seine River, this Beaux Arts-style palace was built to host the 1900 World's Fair. Constructed in just three years by four architects under the supervision of Charles Girault, the massive stone-glass-and-steel edifice was a technical triumph, adorned with intricate Art Nouveau ironwork, imposing sculptures, the French tricolour, and bronze quadrigas atop its façade.

The seemingly weightless glass roof has witnessed the twists and turns of 20th-century history, from early equestrian competitions to serving as a military hospital during the First World War. Over time, the Grand Palais evolved into a magnet for France's cultural scene, hosting some of the world's largest art exhibitions and events. Karl Lagerfeld staged his iconic Chanel fashion shows here. Tour de France participants cycled through the palace during the race's final stage. And during the 2024 Summer Olympics, the Grand Palais hosted fencing and taekwondo events.

The four-year renovation by Paris-based Chatillon Architectes used 3D modelling to study 3000 archival plans in order to blend the building's past with the future. They restored the roof, 150 windows, and the glass-vaulted ceiling, which now shines with natural light. A new insulation system and technical upgrades were added, while public space grew by 140 percent. With 40 new elevators and better connectivity, the building's architectural unity and accessibility are fully restored.

The Place Centrale anchors the redesigned visitor flow at the Grand Palais. Nearby are a reception hall, shops, a bookstore, and the Réséda Café, which is run by Michelin-starred chef Thierry Marx and whose name refers to the building's iconic green ironwork. Newly revealed underground brick vaults now house event spaces and cloakrooms. The Children's Palace, which is an interactive museum on the site of the former riding arena, engages young visitors. And, while the Centre Pompidou undergoes renovation in the coming years, the Grand Palais will also host several of its major exhibitions.

airBaltic* flies to Paris from Riga, Vilnius and Tallinn. Prices may differ when departing from different airports.

Slice to meet you

Europe's next big food obsession

© Whitekitchen

Slice Society brings proper New York energy to Berlin.

Maybe we're heading home after a concert, the football match has just ended, or we're in desperate need of a pick-me-up halfway through a shopping sprint or pub crawl – sometimes we simply don't want a full-blown plate of food. All we need is one generous slice that packs a punch.

Pizza may have been born in 18th-century Naples, but the tradition of selling it by the slice? That's pure New York. Italian immigrants brought pizza to the city in the early 20th century, but it wasn't until the 1960s and 70s that the iconic one-dollar slice took over. Served from steamy counters, on paper plates, folded in half, and devoured standing up, this was food made for a city in constant motion. And it never quite took off in Europe, where the sit-down, full-pie experience remained the standard.

But times are changing. Elevated fast food is trending, and a new wave of pizza-slice joints is quickly becoming the go-to dinner for the modern European urbanite. Where Neapolitan pizza is all soft, pillowy crusts with charred edges and minimal, high-quality toppings, the New York slice delivers a thin, crispy base, a chewy bite, and unapologetically greasy generosity.

Europe's new slice spots fuse the two, keeping the New York spirit of grab-and-go but borrowing Naples' reverence for sourdough and top-shelf ingredients. We're talking punchy house-made sauces and standout toppings. The slices might still come on paper plates, or, in true 2025 fashion, Instagram's new favourite tableware: sleek metallic trays. The vibe? Less trattoria, more curated hangout, with ironic logos, a DIY spirit, eye-catching interiors, maybe a vinyl turntable, and a fridge full of craft sodas, pet-nat, and indie beers with graphic-novel labels.

BIG CITY BITE

Rori in Paris

Located along a pleasant stretch in the 11th arrondissement, Rori attracts a crowd of Parisian cool kids who know their way around a wine list and a trending slice. The space is dressed in sleek metallics with bold red finishes and also has plenty of options for a sit-down meal, which can be pre-booked. Slices come with familiar toppings such as pepperoni as well as more peculiar variations, like cacio e pepe, and can be dialed up with hot honey or dill pickle. There's also a solid lineup of snacks (oysters, croquettes, wings), a parmesan martini, and a wine list that leans toward natural bottles.

30 YEARS IN THE SKY!

Illustration by Roberts Rūrāns

Let's take a look at airBaltic's milestones and most exciting innovations, and hear from its employees – the airline's most important asset

To celebrate 30 years of connecting the Baltics with the world, and the world with the Baltics, we wanted to tell this story through a single image – one that reflects both the emotional and human side of travel. The result is this vibrant and heartfelt work of art created by Latvian artist Roberts Rūrāns.

In the illustration, a crowd of people forms the number 30, waving to an airBaltic aircraft as it flies overhead. It's a moment many of us have experienced: welcoming someone home, waving them goodbye as they set out on their next adventure, or simply looking up with childlike wonder as a plane crosses the sky. It's a tribute to the people who make airBaltic what it is – its employees, passengers, partners, and families – and a reminder that aviation is, at its core, about connection.

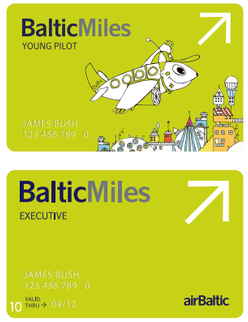

Rūrāns is an illustrator from Riga with a bold, graphic style that has been featured by The New York Times, Hermes, Apple, and many local cultural institutions. His creative process is almost entirely analogue; each piece begins with acrylic on paper, painted by hand. 'I could save time by working digitally,' he says, 'but I find that the quality of craft and a human touch, with all its imperfections, adds a unique value that clients appreciate.'

The result is a singular visual identity for our 30th anniversary – one that captures our values, our people, and the heart of the Baltics.

WHERE INNOVATION MEETS THE HORIZON

Driven by innovation from day one, airBaltic has earned a reputation as a forward-thinking airline and is consistently recognised among the world's most innovative carriers. To celebrate our anniversary, we've compiled 30 fascinating facts about how we've pushed boundaries and continue to move forward.

OUR STORY IN A NUTSHELL

On October 1, 1995, airBaltic operated its first commercial flight, from Riga to Stockholm, with the Saab SF340 aircraft, which had just 33 seats.

02
In November 1999, the airline's first Fokker 50 aircraft arrived in Riga. A fleet of these aircraft faithfully served airBaltic for the next 15 years.

03
In March 1999, the first issue of airBaltic's inflight magazine, Baltic Outlook, was published.

04
In June 2001, airBaltic carried its one millionth passenger.

05
In April 2002, in addition to being well connected with SAS and offering multiple daily flights to Copenhagen and Stockholm, airBaltic opened direct routes from Riga to eight destinations across Eastern and Western Europe.

06
In April 2003, airBaltic launched ticket sales on its website.

07
In November 2003, the first Boeing 737-500 aircraft was introduced into the airBaltic fleet and began operations.

08
In October 2004, airBaltic introduced a new corporate livery featuring an all-white fuselage and a lime-green tailfin emblazoned with the name 'Baltic'.

09
In July 2007, airBaltic launched its online check-in system, becoming the first airline in the Baltic states to offer this service.

10
In October 2009, airBaltic launched its own frequent flyer programme, called BalticMiles. By partnering with leading companies in banking, telecommunications, hospitality, travel, transport, and entertainment, it became the first pan-Baltic loyalty programme.

11
In February 2010, airBaltic opened the airBaltic Training Centre in Riga, which has become one of the largest and most modern aviation training facilities in Central and Eastern Europe.

12
In December 2011, airBaltic became the world's first airline to sell cars on board.

13
In July 2014, airBaltic became the world's first airline to accept Bitcoin as a payment option.

14
In November 2016, airBaltic welcomed the world's first Bombardier CS300 (now Airbus A220-300) in Riga, becoming the global launch customer for this aircraft type.

15
In November 2018, airBaltic presented a gift to Latvia on its centenary – a special livery for its Airbus A220-300, painted in the colours of the Latvian flag. On November 18, the aircraft took part in the parade honouring Latvia's centenary.

16
In August 2019, airBaltic honoured the 30th anniversary of the Baltic Way with a special tribute consisting of three aircraft painted in national liveries and a song dedicated to the historic demonstration.

17
In May 2020, airBaltic began operating a single-type fleet consisting solely of Airbus A220-300 aircraft.

18
In November 2021, airBaltic established its own ground handling operations at RIX Riga Airport.

19
In August 2022, airBaltic welcomed its 50 millionth passenger.

20
In November 2023, airBaltic placed a new order to grow its Airbus A220-300 fleet to 100 aircraft.

21
In December 2024, airBaltic set a new passenger record with 8.3 million travellers in 2024.

22
In February 2025, airBaltic welcomed its 50th Airbus A220-300 aircraft in Riga, which features a special livery incorporating elements from all three Baltic states.

Fleet expansion with its 50th Airbus A220-300

In 2016, airBaltic gradually began replacing the Boeing 737s in its fleet with Bombardier CS300 aircraft. At the time, this state-of-the-art aircraft, built from innovative materials that made it lighter and more durable than similar aircraft, was the most fuel efficient in its class. In 2018, Airbus acquired this branch of Bombardier, and the aircraft became known as the Airbus A220-300. In February 2025, airBaltic proudly welcomed its 50th Airbus A220-300 aircraft, marking a significant milestone in the airline's expanding single-type fleet. Featuring a special Baltic-themed livery, the 50th aircraft was celebrated in both Canada and Latvia. This occasion brings airBaltic halfway to its goal of doubling its fleet to one hundred A220-300s.

23

The founding of airBaltic's Pilot Academy

On April 16, 2018, twelve students began their studies at the newly established airBaltic Pilot Academy. It was founded to secure a steady supply of well-trained pilots for the airline's expanding fleet and also to foster local talent by providing accessible pathways into the aviation industry. As of summer 2025, 131 graduates of the academy have joined the airline as first officers, further highlighting the academy's growing reputation as one of the leading aviation training institutions in the region and underscoring airBaltic's commitment to developing highly skilled pilots locally and within its own ranks.

The first airline to launch its own NFTs

In 2021, airBaltic put innovation onto its radar and became the world's first airline to issue its own non-fungible tokens (NFTs). A first-edition limited collection of NFTs, which featured images depicting the Airbus A220-300 with its individual registration number and pieces of art dedicated to the Latvian towns of Kuldīga and Cēsis, served as a tourism campaign for Latvian towns and cities beyond the capital, which were still undiscovered destinations for many. From then on, favourite towns and cities in Latvia were represented through pieces of digital art issued by airBaltic. In October 2022, airBaltic launched a new NFT collection called Planies, a special cartoon aircraft design collection of 10,000 one-of-a-kind collectibles stored on the Ethereum blockchain.

48 Baltic towns and cities in the air

To honour the 35th anniversary of the Baltic Way demonstration, in August 2024 airBaltic launched a campaign inviting residents of the Baltic states to vote for their favourite city or town to have an airplane named in its honour. Sixteen cities and towns from each country – Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia – were chosen in an online vote. People from all around the globe were allowed to participate in the aircraft-naming process. With one vote per person per day, more than a million votes were collected, and 48 airBaltic aircraft will bear the name of a Baltic city or town.

28

Adjustments to airBaltic's uniform regulations

Aiming to become more diverse and inclusive, in August 2022 airBaltic announced adjustments to its uniform regulation, loosening rules for cabin crew, pilots, and ground personnel. Most tattoos, hairstyles, and piercings are now acceptable and can remain visible while employees perform direct duties. By significantly easing its rules, the company allowed its employees to demonstrate their individuality through tattoos, piercings, and hairstyles if they choose to do so, while proudly wearing airBaltic's stylish uniforms.

27

The opening of the Technical Academy

In May 2024, airBaltic announced that it was accepting applications for its new Technical Academy. The airBaltic Pilot Academy is already well known in the Baltics and beyond, but the Technical Academy is something new. Its mission is to train high-level specialists (EASA Part-66 licensed aircraft technicians) while providing practical work experience and peer-mentor support during training as well as a guaranteed job upon completion of studies.

30

Business class upgrade auction

In 2025, airBaltic began offering passengers the opportunity to enjoy premium perks at a price they choose. With its new auction system, Economy ticket holders can bid to upgrade to a Business-class experience. Joining the auction is simple – passengers visit airBaltic's website, enter their booking number, and place their bid. If they win, they receive an e-mail with instructions on how to upgrade their journey to luxury.

30

Free Wi-Fi

In early 2025, airBaltic began offering ultra-fast and free SpaceX Starlink internet on board its aircraft, allowing passengers to make the most of this perk while soaring high above the clouds. According to an airBaltic survey, passengers love chatting with friends, sharing moments on social media, reading the news, or simply relaxing with their favourite music or shows – all while cruising at 30,000 feet. The airline plans to gradually equip its entire fleet with this innovation.

After Latvia won its first Ice Hockey World Championship medal, airBaltic flew the national team home and marked the occasion with a flag-themed low flypast over Riga on May 29, 2023.

A FLYING TRIBUTE

To foster a shared sense of national pride, airBaltic introduced a series of special liveries on its fleet, proudly painted in the maroon and white of the Latvian flag. Over the years, these aircraft have flown thousands of kilometres, carrying Latvia's name across the globe, appearing at air shows, transporting national sports teams, and delighting everyone lucky enough to see or travel on them.

► After an intense run at the 2023 FIBA Basketball World Cup in Manila, airBaltic had the privilege of flying Latvia's men's basketball dream team home from Dubai. Throughout the tournament, the players' grit, teamwork, and passion lit up the court and brought the entire nation together. As they stepped on board, the cabin filled with smiles, applause, and a shared sense of pride.

▼ Riding the wave of the historic bronze-medal success of the Latvian men's national ice hockey team at the IIHF 2023 Ice Hockey World Championship, airBaltic answered fans' enthusiasm with a brand-new concept: pop-up flights. Just in time for the 2024 Ice Hockey World Championship, special flights from Riga to Ostrava in the Czech Republic let fans follow every thrilling moment of their team's games. It was a way to be part of the action, cheering alongside fellow supporters and bringing the excitement of the rink to the skies.

▲ In 2023, airBaltic unveiled its 40th Airbus A220-300 aircraft in a dazzling ceremony. This striking jet, only the second in the fleet to don the bold maroon and white of the Latvian flag, is a flying emblem of national pride. The celebration grew even more special as airBaltic announced its partnership with the XXVII Nationwide Latvian Song and XVII Dance Festival, becoming the festival's official airline and carrier. Together, they created a perfect harmony of pride in the skies and on the stage, uniting tradition, culture, and aviation in a single unforgettable moment.

▲ On November 18, 2024, Latvia's Independence Day, an airBaltic Airbus A220-300 – painted in the colours of the national flag and proudly bearing the name Riga – soared over the ceremonial parade to mark the republic's anniversary. It was the airline's fifth such tribute, once again flown by experienced Latvian pilots.

▲ On August 21, 2019, airBaltic marked the 30th anniversary of the Baltic Way – a unique and peaceful political demonstration – with a special event at RIX Riga International Airport. For the first time, all three Airbus A220-300 planes featuring the national flags of Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania were displayed side by side, symbolising the airline's deep connection to the region. Fifteen painters had spent 1000 hours and used 250 litres of paint and clearcoat to create these stunning liveries. For the Baltic states, August is a month of freedom, and the event celebrated their shared spirit.

▲ airBaltic's first special-livery aircraft took to the skies in 2018, celebrating Latvia's centenary with an exclusive Airbus A220-300 adorned with the national flag. The tail featured the official graphic identity of the centenary campaign, while the aircraft itself was named after the country's capital, Riga. This marked the first time in airBaltic's history that a full special livery was unveiled, transforming the plane into a flying tribute to Latvia. Today, that tradition continues, with a tribute plane taking part in Latvia's annual Independence Day parade in Riga.

airBaltic's GREATEST ASSET – ITS EMPLOYEES!

It's the employees at airBaltic who make the company tick and who make sure all the operations run smoothly. One most often sees them on board – cabin crew members and pilots on the flight deck – but there are many more who work behind the scenes. Some of them have been with the airline since it was founded 30 years ago, while others were hired only recently. We asked them to share their stories of how they came to work for airBaltic, what their roles are in the big 'machine' called airBaltic, and what hopes and wishes they have for the airline and their colleagues as they celebrate airBaltic's 30th birthday.

30 YEARS
Renāte Limare,
Inflight Service and Operations Supervisor

'I joined airBaltic at the very beginning, before the airline was even called airBaltic. At first, I worked as a flight attendant on Saab 340 aircraft, where, incidentally, I was the only flight attendant for all 33 passengers. Over the years, I've worked on almost all the aircraft types in the airBaltic fleet.

'However, in addition to flying, I also perform a variety of duties on the ground. I guess it was only natural that I ended up in Inflight Service and cannot imagine myself anywhere else. My team and I develop the service that reaches the cabin crew and passengers.

'I'm responsible for the operational side, which includes everything from daily routines and comments in cabin crew reports to quality checks, audits, and – the most interesting part – various irregularities. It's precisely these non-standard situations that help you realise that you're capable of solving even the most complex "crossword puzzles". And that's also what keeps me in this job: it's an exciting, dynamic environment full of unpredictable situations. It's like an addiction. I especially felt this during the Covid-19 pandemic, when all that activity suddenly stopped. It was awful, because I realised I cannot live without this dynamic rhythm and discipline.'

25 YEARS
Raitis Dzelmītis,
Technician B1/B2, Troubleshooter

'Back when I graduated from the Riga College of Aviation, there weren't many opportunities for work in my field. But, while there were very many applicants to airBaltic, I managed to join the airline on my second attempt.

'My current duties include performing technical maintenance on aircraft and engines – scheduled maintenance as well as troubleshooting. Lately, my work has been more focused on engine inspections. I always get the most satisfaction from successfully solving new technical issues.

'The thing that has probably kept me in the field of aviation for all these years is that I really enjoy working with machines. Also, the fact that in aviation, basically no two days are alike. Even when you're performing the same task, there's always some little nuance that makes the work interesting. And also, of course, the opportunity to travel, both for work and pleasure. But if we're talking specifically about airBaltic, then it's definitely the team I work with.'

20 YEARS
Jānis Galviņš,
Line Supervisor Cabin Crew

'More than 20 years ago, my only connection to aviation was frequent travel between Latvia and Denmark, where I was living at the time. When I returned to Latvia in 2005, I learned about the possibility of joining airBaltic as a flight attendant, which was a rare opportunity back then.

'Over time, my duties as a flight attendant have expanded. In addition to my day-to-day work, I now also help to train and support my colleagues. My position has changed from time to time, but I still share my experience and various tips with them that help them remain calm and professional even in unpredictable situations. It's my duty to show by example how important it is not only to follow written procedures but also to provide the human warmth and sense of security that passengers remember.

'I'm attracted to aviation because of the unique working environment. I've witnessed airBaltic grow and change, and I can proudly say that I've also been a part of that story.

'Many of my colleagues will say the same thing, and I know it may sound a little clichéd, but there's a special energy in aviation that attracts and holds you like a magnet.

'I hope that the company and each of its employees continues to grow, develop, and preserve that special atmosphere to which our passengers want to keep returning.'

15 YEARS
Lauris Ābols,
Senior Centralised Load Control Shift Supervisor

'I arrived at airBaltic in 2010, when the company decided to establish its own centralised weight and balance control centre (BT CLC), so I can say that I've been with the BT CLC department since its inception. At first, I was a weight and balance coordinator, and my responsibilities were to monitor and coordinate the loading and unloading of aircraft in accordance with our instructions and procedures, including hazardous materials and special cargo.

'Now I'm a senior shift manager. My main duties have remained the same, but I have several additional responsibilities as well, such as the BT CLC Helpdesk, which I'd like to highlight. It was created as a first-level support platform for fellow colleagues dealing with ground operations.

'airBaltic is a very modern and contemporary company that's able to adapt to changing market trends influenced by global processes. I also enjoy the international working environment and the special atmosphere that creates. I've remained in the field of aviation, and especially in operational work, because I like the dynamic work environment, which continues 24/7 without stopping. Despite my many years of service, the work has not become routine; every day and every situation is different – there are practically no two identical situations. And I get satisfaction from the feeling of a job well done at the end of a shift, when flights have departed on time and there are no unnecessary delays that affect our passengers. The same goes for resolving non-standard situations that can arise during a shift.

'I congratulate airBaltic on its 30th anniversary and hope it continues to develop and adapt to trends in the aviation market. I also congratulate all of my colleagues, and my wish for them is to maintain a positive attitude and take pride in being part of airBaltic.'

10 YEARS
Ieva Savicka,
Crew Experience and Rostering Supervisor

'I studied aviation transport at Riga Technical University, and I applied for a job at airBaltic during my fourth year, when I began looking for job opportunities in aviation in Latvia. I applied for a technical assistant position in the Technical Department, where I worked for nine months. My first tasks were entering technical documents into systems, checking documents, and working in the archive. I then applied for an internal vacancy in the Crew Planning Department, where I still work today, planning schedules for cabin crew and pilots.

'Crew planning consists of long-term, medium-term, and short-term planning. Right now, I'm working on medium-term planning, making changes to crew schedules, planning standby flights, changing flights if necessary, planning training flights, checking working hours, monitoring to ensure everything complies with EASA regulations, and managing any situations that affect the crew and their schedules. I'm also responsible for various projects involving our main system, through which crew members book their desired flights and days off for the following month.

'My work has always been dynamic and varied, and I like that! Of course, there are routine tasks, but in aviation, unexpected situations tend to arise that require quick solutions. And that's also what gives me the greatest satisfaction – resolving a situation so that the crew is happy and we've been able to help. Every "thank you for your help" is a great pleasure. Aviation really pulls you in – it's a phenomenon that's hard to explain. In addition, it's a very international work environment, which I also enjoy.

'I wish both airBaltic and my colleagues nothing but success. May there be even more green tails and happy faces in the sky, from passengers as well as crew members! airBaltic is a great community to be a part of, so I'm very happy to have been here for ten years already.'

5 YEARS
Zanda Dunajeva,
Shift Supervisor and Reservation Control Coordinator

'After nearly 15 years in the new housing development industry, I realised it was time for a change, to learn new things, and challenge myself a bit. So when I saw an ad for job openings at airBaltic, I decided to go for it. I sent in my application for a job in the call centre, passed the selection process, and began working after two weeks of training. My duties included answering customer calls and emails, resolving various issues related to ticket purchases, changes, and cancellations, and also helping passengers who needed to make unexpected flight changes. On top of all that, I started working at airBaltic during the pandemic, when every week my colleagues and I anxiously awaited the latest announcements about travel restrictions and subsequent flight changes.

'Now I'm a shift manager at the call centre, and I'm responsible for ensuring that our day-to-day work runs smoothly – that customers are served quickly, kindly, and professionally. I make sure that our agents maintain a positive attitude and stay motivated even in stressful situations, and I help them deal with more complex issues and unusual situations, which happen every day.

'Here at airBaltic, I most appreciate the opportunity to work with fantastic colleagues who are knowledgeable, responsible, motivated, and enthusiastic. I love being part of this team! That's why I'm happy about everything my colleagues achieve. On a day-to-day basis, the greatest satisfaction usually comes from small and seemingly mundane things, such as a phone call that ends on a positive note and with smiles all around, a conversation during which we've been able to allay a passenger's concerns and anxiety about their upcoming flight and related issues, or the knowledge that we've done everything possible to get our passengers safely and comfortably to their destinations.'

3 MONTHS
Bernardo Winkeler,
First Officer, graduate of the airBaltic Pilot Academy

'I was always an avgeek. Despite the fact that I grew up in Brazil, I knew all about airBaltic when the company had Boeing 757s and 737s – classic aircraft types that interested me back then. I always kept an eye on what airBaltic was doing.

'When airBaltic began introducing the new Airbus A220-300 aircraft, and later, when it established the airBaltic Pilot Academy with a state-of-the-art fleet of Diamond DA40 and DA42 aircraft, it caught my eye again, and I immediately began considering it a feasible plan to study at the airBaltic Pilot Academy and become a pilot.

'Now that I've graduated from the academy and am flying as a pilot, it's nothing short of a dream come true! I couldn't have wished for a better starting point for my career. Ever since the day I decided to apply to the Pilot Academy, back in October 2022, I've had nothing but positive experiences and meaningful connections. The initial immediate response from the company, the openness from the HR department, and the encouragement from senior colleagues whenever I've had contact with them are just some examples.

'Last month marked my third month flying the Airbus A220-300. During this time, I've accumulated approximately 200 hours flying this beautiful aircraft. Before starting line flying, I also had the opportunity to work in the Quality and Safety Department for six months, while still studying at the Pilot Academy. This experience was extremely valuable and gave me insights into the day-to-day flight operations, showing me how well-qualified and professional our behind-the-scenes team is to make everything run smoothly.

'Beyond geographical connectivity, airBaltic also connects people to their dreams, creates lifelong stories and friendships, and fosters a genuine sense of togetherness. This is all thanks to our amazing colleagues, and my wish is that we continue to uphold and grow these values as the company moves toward an even brighter future!'

OPENING OF THE PILOT ACADEMY

The year 2018 was marked by the founding of airBaltic's Pilot Academy.

On April 16, 2018, twelve students began their studies at the newly established airBaltic Pilot Academy. The academy was founded to secure a steady supply of well-trained pilots for the airline's expanding fleet and to foster local talent by providing accessible pathways into the aviation industry. At the time, the situation in the market was very difficult, with a significant shortage of pilots. Thus, in the spring of 2017, airBaltic decided to open its own pilot academy, which has since gained an excellent reputation in the industry as an educational institution and has attracted students not only from the Baltic states but from all across Europe and beyond.

Of the 12 students in the academy's first class, all 12 are currently working for airBaltic. And, all being well, all of those pilots are on course to soon become captains. As of the present day, a total of 136 graduates of the Pilot Academy are currently working as pilots for airBaltic. When the Pilot Academy opened, most of the instructors were airBaltic pilots. This also served as a measure of quality, because it meant that students would be trained in accordance with airBaltic's internal procedures and gain direct experience from airBaltic professionals. The academy has maintained this approach, and many (currently 18!) of its instructors are now PA graduates themselves. However, instructors are also recruited from outside the company, as it would be difficult to cover everything with airBaltic pilots alone due to their work schedules.

Initially, students had to fund their pilot training themselves, which cost just under EUR 70,000. But airBaltic then established a successful collaboration with financial institutions that provided loans to prospective students to cover tuition fees. Many potential students were greatly relieved by the news in 2023 that airBaltic had improved its payment structure and that prospective pilots who receive a positive assessment from the company could receive a loan from airBaltic for most of their tuition fees, in return for a commitment to work for the airline for the following five years. With these changes, students initially need to cover the cost of ATPL theory studies and 45 flight hours, which amount to EUR 25,000. After receiving an evaluation from airBaltic and becoming employees of the company, the airline provides financing (loans) for their remaining studies. These financial conditions still apply to the airBaltic Pilot Academy today.

Unlike other schools in Europe, when the Covid-19 pandemic began in 2020, airBaltic did not disband any academy groups and continued studies remotely, also obtaining permission for solo flights, thus ensuring that students did not have to interrupt their studies. In addition, there was much less traffic at Riga Airport, sometimes even complete silence, which provided a unique opportunity to conduct training flights from Liepāja (where the academy's flight base is located) to Riga.

In 2018, airBaltic ordered Diamond Aircraft planes for the academy's needs, and the first such aircraft landed in Riga that spring. These planes are considered some of the most modern and safest training planes in the world. The airBaltic Pilot Academy now has ten Diamond aircraft at its disposal: nine single-engine DA40s and one twin-engine DA42. They are quiet, fuel-efficient, and, because they have a high glide ratio, very safe. In addition, the panel with screens is similar to that of the Airbus A220-300, making it easier for students to transition to flying the airline's fleet of Airbus A220-300 aircraft.

In 2020, the Pilot Academy opened a flight training base in Liepāja (additional flights are now also operated from Ventspils and Kupiškis). Aircraft maintenance and repair also takes place in Liepāja, and the maintenance centre there is an authorised Diamond Aircraft maintenance centre that also repairs Diamond aircraft for other customers. Likewise, the Liepāja base provides practical training for students of the Liepāja State Technical College who are studying to become aircraft technicians and who, after graduation, often continue their studies at the airBaltic Training Centre and join airBaltic as employees.

Most Pilot Academy students are from Latvia and the Baltic states, followed by France, Germany, Finland, Spain, and other countries. Interestingly, thanks to the academy, several people who had moved abroad have returned to Latvia. Young people who grew up elsewhere but have Latvian roots and passports have also used this opportunity to study at the Pilot Academy. After graduation, 99% of the academy's students stay on to work at airBaltic. Some have then later joined Air France or other airlines.

It is also interesting that people from other professional fields are enrolling in the airBaltic Pilot Academy. For example, one current student was formerly a ship captain. One graduate is the former head of social media at airBaltic, who now works as a pilot for the airline. And another graduate, who is now a pilot, was once a helicopter pilot in the Latvian army and joined the Pilot Academy after retiring from military service.

The airBaltic Pilot Academy currently has 158 active students, 10% of whom are women.

OPENING OF THE TECHNICAL ACADEMY

And five years later, as the airline successfully weathered the pandemic and continued to grow, it took its next step by opening the Technical Academy.

As airBaltic acquires more aircraft, the airline is in need of more mechanics and technicians to carry out aircraft maintenance in the coming years. The mission of the airBaltic Technical Academy is to train high-level specialists (EASA Part-66 licensed aircraft technicians) while providing practical work experience and peer-mentor support during training.

Technicians carry out aircraft maintenance work to ensure the uninterrupted and safe operation of commercial aircraft in compliance with all regulations. Maintenance work includes scheduled work on systems and components – which is carried out after a specified number of flight hours, flight cycles, or days in accordance with instructions issued by the aircraft manufacturer – as well as unscheduled work and repairs. The need for these repairs is detected by the technicians themselves during the various scheduled inspections or relayed to them by onboard crews during flights.

Technicians are divided into several categories, and each carries out a specific scope of work for which they have been specially trained and subsequently certified by examination. Certified technicians also certify each individual job they do with their signature. To become a certified technician, one must complete a specialised aviation education course and accumulate a specified amount of practical experience in aircraft maintenance work. When both of these are satisfactorily fulfilled, the student obtains an aircraft maintenance technician licence. On average, this process takes five years.

The opening of the airBaltic Technical Academy is great news for people who are looking into becoming aircraft technicians, especially recent high school or technical school graduates. It's also great news for those who are considering enrolling in university to study technical sciences, and even for auto mechanics wanting to try working in a different field. For all of you: this is an opportunity to become an aircraft technician (B1 or B2) in less than five years, and for free, at that. airBaltic covers all training expenses and even pays students an aircraft mechanic's salary – from day one for those in the airBaltic Mechanics group, and after the first year for those in the Riga Technical University (RTU) and Liepāja State Technical School (LVT) groups.

It's an opportunity to become an EASA Part-66 licensed technician in just a few years' time. The academy provides not only a full training course but also practical experience, with students learning directly from experienced airBaltic employees. Prospective students can choose between three groups, or scenarios, depending on their motivation, ambition, and previous experience, if any.

airBaltic covers the full cost of the training cycle for students at its Technical Academy, while for those in the airBaltic group at Liepāja State Technical School (LVT), the cost for the part of training carried out by LVT comes from the state budget. airBaltic also provides aircraft type training and prepares students for authorisation. Depending on the group selected, students may begin working for airBaltic as aircraft mechanics as soon as they begin their studies (this applies to those in the Mechanics group) or upon completing their first year of study. Employment at airBaltic means career development opportunities, employee benefits, and gaining experience in an aviation company with one of Europe's newest fleets.

Right now, a total of 47 students are a part of airBaltic's Technical Academy. The study process is still in progress, but already 39 students are part of airBaltic's team of mechanics and technicians.

THE QUIET LUXURY OF LIVING WELL

Step inside the world of Matteo Thun, the star architect and designer whose work effortlessly combines elegance, sustainability, and a deep respect for culture and nature. In this exclusive interview, he shares his vision for creating spaces that nurture both body and soul, reveals the stories behind some of his most inspiring projects, and offers a fresh perspective on how thoughtful design can enrich our daily lives.

INTERVIEW / September

If you've ever spent a night at the JW Marriott in Venice or nhow Hotel in Milan, enjoyed a meal at Vapiano, washed your hands under a Duravit faucet, or savoured an espresso from an Illy cup, then you've already encountered the world of Matteo Thun. The renowned Italian architect and designer is one of Europe's most prolific and visionary creatives. His journey began in the 1980s as a founding member of the legendary Memphis Group in Milan, an avantgarde collective that redefined the language of design. Since then, Thun has built a career that spans decades and continents, creating award-winning work for leading brands.

With more than 40 years of experience in architecture, Thun's projects stretch across the globe, from Italy and Germany to South Korea, the United Arab Emirates, and Canada. His portfolio is a curated collection of serene resorts and spas, holistic wellness retreats, futuristic corporate headquarters, sustainable timber villages, and luxury hotels steeped in timeless heritage. Each design reflects a deep respect for the surrounding landscape and the people who inhabit it and is guided by a clear vision of what contemporary architecture should be: not confrontational but inviting, not radical but meaningful. In Thun's spaces, people feel in harmony with themselves and with the world around them. These are environments shaped by warmth, honesty in materials, and a quiet sense of healing. For him, architecture is not just about objects – it's about experiences. It's a kind of luxury that's born from simplicity, where form emerges not through noise but through calm.

Founded in 1984, Matteo Thun & Partners, which has offices in Milan and Munich, has become a celebrated platform for architecture and design – one that speaks the language of sustainable beauty and timeless values. A master of vision and nuance, Thun has always known how to express complex ideas with both intelligence and subtle irony. It's this rare quality that has earned him a reputation not only as a designer but also as a thinker, a storyteller, and a true protagonist in the world of contemporary architecture.

This is my second meeting with the architecture and design luminary. Our first was in Milan during the Salone del Mobile, where Thun was unveiling a new line of wooden furniture designed in collaboration with his studio partner Antonio Rodriguez. The few minutes we shared passed quickly, yet within them, he articulated a deep and enduring architectural philosophy about the power of natural light, the honesty of local materials, sustainability as a way of life rather than a marketing slogan, the rejection of ego in design, and the quiet presence of genius loci, or the soul of a place.

This time, our conversation takes place in Venice, against the backdrop of the Venice Architecture Biennale. The event is a vibrant meeting of the finest architectural minds from across the globe, where Thun's studio is presenting its latest project, Fratelli Tutti. In recent years, he has become deeply engaged in restoring and reimagining the region's historical heritage. And more and more, he finds himself drawn to the quiet rhythms of his Venetian apartment, with its view across the water to Giudecca. There he savours slow evenings, golden sunsets, and the simple pleasure of being surrounded by art.

> The renowned Italian architect and designer is one of Europe's most prolific and visionary creatives

You've mentioned Venice as one of your favourite places for a leisurely walk. What are some of your most memorable experiences there?
My parents took me to the Venice Biennale when I was very young, and I have not missed one since. We've had a second home in Venice for a couple of years now, and I very much enjoy visiting the churches, palaces, and squares here. One of my favourite churches is San Sebastiano, just around the corner from our house. It contains frescoes by Il Veronese, an artist whose work I greatly admire. Venice is full of beauty. The presence of water and the lagoon, and the fact that you can only get around by boat or on foot, means life moves at a slower pace.

You're currently working on the magnificent Langham Venice resort on Murano Island, set to open in 2026. Can you share a few behind-the-scenes insights before the grand reveal?
The project is deeply shaped by its setting and heritage. It's about breathing new life into what already exists – honouring the past while creating something contemporary. On Murano's historic Rio dei Vetrai, a place that's rich in cultural significance, we're blending the elegance of Venetian Renaissance architecture with the modern spirit of the glassmaking tradition. The Renaissance-era buildings facing the lagoon will be meticulously restored and will serve as the main entrance to The Langham. Guests, as well as the public, will also have access to the beautifully preserved Casino Mocenigo, with its original frescoes celebrating music, poetry, and love.

We've retained the façades of the former glass furnaces, including their original wooden trusses, while integrating new architectural elements that bring a subtle modern flair – always in harmony with Murano's identity. At the heart of the resort will be a private central courtyard, which is a rare feature in Venice. It will serve as a serene oasis complete with a lush garden, pool, and bar, offering a true sense of calm and seclusion.

Every detail of the project has been developed in close collaboration with Venetian heritage authorities, using traditional materials and drawing on the craftsmanship of Murano's master glassmakers. The Langham Venice will be the first true luxury hotel on the island – a place that embodies the essence of Venetian culture and lifestyle. I believe it has the potential to breathe new energy into the lagoon.

Staying with the theme of cultural heritage, the Fairmont Château Lake Louise in Canada and the opulent retreat on Lake Chiemsee in Germany are two of your most recent hospitality projects. What challenges did you face when designing these high-end hotels, and how did you ensure that each one reflected its local heritage?

Both projects – Chiemgauhof in Germany and the spa at the Fairmont Château Lake Louise in Canada – are luxurious developments located on lakeshores and set within stunning, protected natural environments. At their core, both are about connecting with the lake, the mountains, and the surrounding nature. It's all about capturing the soul of the place – bringing the outside in. That's why a careful study of the site's orientation, wind patterns, sunrises and sunsets, soil, vegetation, culture, and local traditions is essential. All of these elements help shape the guiding idea behind each project.

Chiemgauhof Lakeside Retreat was built using local wood and a deliberately restrained palette of natural materials. Regional identity, expressed through materials and architectural language, plays a central role in the design. The concept brings together the charm of traditional wooden barns with the comforts of modern hospitality. A thoughtful understanding of the site's spirit, combined with energy-efficient technologies, allows us to reduce the ecological footprint and minimise climate impact.

Matteo Thun is renowned for projects focusing on health and well-being, such as the Waldkliniken in Eisenberg, Germany.

Our surroundings have a profound effect on our health, well-being, and recovery

For the Fairmont Château Lake Louise, we were commissioned to design a year-round health and wellness facility – one that's contemporary, eco-conscious, and inspired by the surrounding glacial landscape. We worked closely with Parks Canada to ensure complete respect for the forest, the natural surroundings, and the architectural language of the historic Fairmont Château. All the materials were selected for their ability to age beautifully and convey sensuality and tactility. The locally sourced wood, in particular, will develop a rich patina over time, enhancing the building's connection to its environment.

You're renowned for your projects focusing on health and well-being, such as the Waldkliniken in Eisenberg, Germany. How do you approach designing spaces that promote healing and comfort, and what role does nature play in such environments?
Nature is a fundamental part of our work. Over the past few decades, it has become increasingly clear that our surroundings have a profound effect on our health, well-being, and recovery. Designing environments that support healing is an interdisciplinary effort that blends architecture with medicine, psychology, environmental science, and design.

The hospital of the future should be anything but a sterile box. Waldkliniken is a perfect example – it's neither a traditional clinic nor a hotel. We call it hospitecture.

Now that we're living in the age of AI, what role does it play in your projects, and which innovations are you most excited about today?
I'm actually the only one among the approximately 100 architects and designers at Matteo Thun & Partners who doesn't own a computer. To borrow a phrase from writer Italo Calvino, I believe in working more synthetically, quickly, and precisely – with pencil and watercolour in hand.

I believe in the 'intelligence of the hand', in which the hand leads and the brain follows. Design begins with what the hand understands instinctively – and only afterward does the brain decide whether to approve. Or not.

How do you think houses will be designed in the future?
At this point, I'd like to talk about wood, which is truly the building material of the 21st century. For me, wood is both high-tech and high-touch. It combines technical and aesthetic durability, offering an almost endless life cycle. Wood perfectly embodies the idea of building in harmony with the environment, local culture, and economy. It's also lightweight and ideal for mass production, thus helping to optimise construction time and reduce operating costs.

Timber construction fits perfectly with our philosophy of the 'three zeros': zero kilometres, by using local builders and craftsmen to cut transport distances; zero emissions, through climate-neutral energy sources; and zero waste, thanks to high recycling rates and careful life cycle management. Today, timber construction isn't just a choice; it's a social responsibility.

If you could design anything, with no budget or constraints, what would you design and why?
I'm very happy with the Fratelli Tutti installation.

Thun grew up in a family of ceramicists at Klebenstein Castle in South Tyrol.

My heroes are the great Italian masters, especially Leonardo da Vinci

What inspired Fratelli Tutti, and what message does it aim to convey?
The project draws inspiration from Jorge Bergoglio's [the birth name of Pope Francis, who passed away in April 2025 – Ed.] encyclical Fratelli Tutti, or 'Brothers All'. It's part of a broader, ongoing initiative that honours the universal values of peace, fraternity, and shared humanity. Rooted in the principles of reuse, simplicity, and regeneration, the Fratelli Tutti installation serves as a place for meditation and collective reflection on the shared values of peace embraced by religions worldwide, on the intertwined destinies of humanity and nature, and on the resilience of natural materials.

Built from reclaimed wood sourced from an abandoned Alpine hay barn, the installation transforms discarded materials into a permanent space for spiritual and human connection. After its temporary exhibition at the Biennale, Fratelli Tutti will find its final home in the Alps at an altitude of 2000 metres. By integrating reclaimed resources, minimising consumption, and ensuring durability, the project embodies a truly regenerative vision.

You grew up in a family of ceramicists in South Tyrol. Did you ever consider how your childhood environment shaped your creative talents, vision, and relationship with materials?
I was raised in Klebenstein Castle in the Sarntal Valley, which stretches north from Bolzano in South Tyrol. Although I spent my childhood in just a few heated rooms, I vividly remember the castle's grand proportions and the impressive size of its spaces. My mother was a ceramicist, and my brother and I made our own clay tools. I was particularly good at crafting turtles.

How has the history of Italian culture influenced your work, and which figures from this tradition inspire you the most?
My heroes are the great Italian masters, especially Leonardo da Vinci. My teachers included Emilio Vedova and Ettore Sottsass. Sottsass was not only a photographer and writer but also a designer who worked on a small scale with the logic of an architect. Perhaps the most lasting impact of his work is the sensorial quality with which he infused eroticism into everything he created. Sottsass taught me to push boundaries and always seek new solutions.

I agree that we're now in an era where new solutions are urgently needed. What do you imagine life will be like in the future, especially given the rapid changes in the climate?
We must change! I'd like to quote Carlo Ratti, the curator of the 19th Architecture Biennale: 'In the time of adaptation, architecture is at the centre and must lead with optimism. It needs to draw on all forms of

On weekends, I take long walks in nature to recharge intelligence – natural, artificial, collective. It must reach across generations and disciplines – from the hard sciences to the arts. In this time of adaptation, architecture must rethink authorship, become more inclusive, and learn from science.'

As one of the founders of the iconic and revolutionary Memphis Group, how has this experience influenced your designs, particularly in an era so focused on sustainability?
Actually, my work during the Memphis period differs only superficially from my work today. The ethical principles of sustainability that have guided our work for many years remain unchanged. After thirty years, the most positive impact has been an accelerated process of discovering a sensorial design language. We're returning to focus on humans and their senses.

We cannot simply repeat Memphis – that was a very specific moment in the early 1980s. But sensoriality and consciousness now define our modern age. These values accompany us once again as we reconnect with interpersonal relationships and rediscover our senses.

For a long time, design was primarily 'visual'. Now, we're ready to explore the sense of touch and focus on conscious solutions for the planet.

I noticed that your studio presented a variety of new product designs at Milan Design Week this year. Several of your recent designs have won international awards. How you approach the integration of product design and architecture?
I follow the Milanese tradition of 'from spoon to city'. We design at every scale, from the smallest details to entire urban environments. Our architects, interior architects, product designers, and graphic designers work together in a strong interdisciplinary network across our offices. Most of our product designs are integrated into our interior projects, creating a harmonious connection between objects and spaces.

Can you walk me through a typical day in your life? What daily habits help you stay creative and maintain your energy?
I start my day with Pilates. I enjoy green or ginger tea throughout the workday, and I have fresh vegetables for lunch. On weekends, I take long walks in nature to recharge.

How important is it for you to follow a Mediterranean diet?
Being Italian, it's very important to me. Besides Japanese cuisine, I believe the Mediterranean diet is one of the best in the world! bo

The GONGU philosophy is the acoustics of taste. This emerged in the handwriting of chef Evgeny Pesin, where technique, intuition, and courage to combine tradition with modernity meet. He drew inspiration from all over the world, and now it is reflected in the GONGU project in Riga. GONGU represents a delicate combination of Japanese precision and Peruvian tenderness. You will enjoy the unique Nikkei cuisine.

The copper gong itself travelled to Riga from faraway Indonesia.

Gong is not just a story about sound. In ancient times, the sound of the gong purified perception and represented a transition point. A beginning. From the external to the internal. From the ordinary to what truly matters. Today it is a transition point from the chaos of the city to calm and enjoyment of delicious meals and beautiful things.

The enjoyment of restored antique bricks, hand-painted walls, beautiful rusty staircase and a spectacular terrace with captivating view over Riga's Old Town and of the Daugava river.

Restaurant GONGU has two separate open space bars with well-made cocktails. GONGU offers music events featuring honorable artists and comfortable location right next to the old town Riga.

Now it is time to try what the GONGU offers and to see the stunning gong directly at the restaurant.

LONDON'S

London calling? In 2025, London isn't just calling – it's texting, DM-ing, and probably livestreaming, too. The British capital has shed its 'classic city break' image of museums and tea and stepped into the spotlight as Europe's hip cousin, always ahead of the curve in culture, fashion, and, yes, even food. If you thought you knew the city, think again.

There's a new kind of energy crackling through London's streets. Just look at the wave of new and revived landmarks. In May, East London welcomed the V&A East Storehouse, unlocking access to over half a million objects, from vintage football shirts to costumes worn by Elton John. This autumn, the Storehouse will open the David Bowie Centre, which will house Bowie's personal archive.

Meanwhile, Finsbury Circus – London's oldest park – has reopened after more than a decade, offering a peaceful green pause amid the City's glass towers. This year also marks a milestone for London's architectural scene, namely, the 25th anniversary of the Serpentine Pavilion, which is being celebrated with a monumental wooden structure by Bangladeshi architect Marina Tabassum. And coming soon to Shoreditch is the Museum of Shakespeare, a new immersive experience built on the site of Shakespeare's original playhouse that's set to transport visitors straight back to the 16th century.

'You can have so many different versions of the city. There's always something new to discover,' says Ylam Deme, an architect who has called London her home for more than a decade. In recent years, she's noticed a shift toward craft, slower living, sustainability, and inclusion. 'Anyone can become a Londoner, but that's not the case in cities like Paris.' Originally from France, Deme sees London as a creative melting pot shaped by a new generation of galleries and art organisations such as SET Woolwich, along with legendary institutions like the Barbican. 'The Noah Davis exhibition at the Barbican was probably one of the most powerful shows I've seen,' Deme adds.

Meanwhile, British culture isn't just filling museums and galleries – it's gone viral. Britishcore, a trending aesthetic online, celebrates the charm of the everyday: Greggs sausage rolls, Tesco meal deals, Lime bikes, and making a silly drinking game of the city's favourite bev, Split the G, which has now entered the global lexicon. And Guinness is leaning in, opening a visitor experience in Covent Garden by year's end that will be part microbrewery, part taproom, part tribute to London's pub culture. Not for nothing did the British cause a Guinness shortage in late 2024.

Long overshadowed by Paris and New York City, London's food scene is picking up. Dining spots in Amsterdam and Paris, for example, are trying to replicate the relaxed warmth of pubs and the tradition of the Sunday roast. 'British people love to hang in a pub, and adding good food to the experience makes sense,' says Panayiota Soutis, a Hackney-based food-comms pro who runs the newsletter called The Goal Is to Eat, which is laced with juicy insights from the city's hospitality scene. She notes fresh fervour fuelled by the rise of supper clubs and pop-ups, allowing more chefs to enter the scene from less traditional backgrounds and giving them space to experiment. 'London is home to well-travelled diners who want the best ingredients on their plates, the best wines in their glass, and the best personalities looking after them.'

When asked about key players, Soutis lists the alumni of the legendary St. John's launching their own ventures, such as F.K.A.B.A.M. and Café Cecilia, alongside the Super 8 group's restaurants, including Kiln and Brat. She also points to West London's rise as a dining destination with spots like Dorian and The Pelican. Add to that Jolene, a bakery-restaurant with a cult following, celebrity-backed newcomers such as Lupa Italian by Theo James, and East London's hyper-cool ice cream and natural wine haunt The Dreamery, courtesy of the adjacent Goodbye Horses, and you've got more must-visit spots than time to hit them all.

The city's nightlife and hospitality are thriving, too, helped by later opening hours and a renewed push to support the industry. Hotspots such as The Dover and One Club Row now keep the energy going well into the night – these are places to see and be seen, where the crowd is just as much part of the experience as the drinks. Nadia Smolanka, a street photographer and fashion designer who's been documenting Londoners' style since the pandemic, observed that each part of London has its own look. For example, East London brings boldness and creativity, while West London leans toward polished and classic. But one thing runs through it all: Londoners dress for themselves. 'A sense of individuality, a touch of class, a hint of trend. But above all, it's rooted in comfort,' Soutis concludes.

BAKERY

Toad

The weekend queues say it all – this South East London bakery has a loyal following, thanks to its inventive pastries and plush sourdough sandwiches. Expect creations such as white chocolate and black sesame pain saucisse, cardamom buns with orange syrup, savoury danishes with ever-changing fillings, and textbook-perfect croissants. No indoor seating, but if you're lucky, you can snag a bench outside to enjoy your snack with a cup of good filter coffee.

The Lavery

LUNCH

The Lavery

Set in the stunning former home and studio of painter Sir John Lavery, this South Kensington address has charmed native food critics with its mix of thoughtful cooking and a welcoming, yet festive air. Upstairs, former River Café chef Yohei Furuhashi delivers a seasonal Mediterranean menu. Think grilled squid with fresh borlotti and veal chop with yellow pepper Piemontese, all paired with a well-curated European-focused wine list. The ground-floor café, for its part, serves a daily-changing chalkboard menu for breakfast and lunch.

APERITIVO

Noisy Oyster

What does a seafood bistro of the future look like? Go to this ultra-stylish nook in Spitalfields to find out. The menu features inventive seafood dishes such as scallops with pickled raspberry, as well as beloved staples like stracciatella, anchovies, and skate wing, paired with a playful mini martini. Set within the historic Norton Folgate development, Noisy Oyster boasts a sleek, modern, minimalist aesthetic. Nab a seat by the high-shine chrome bar or in the tranquil courtyard and enjoy a tony lunch, pre-dinner oyster, or chic late-night dinner.

DINNER

Osteria Angelina

This Spitalfields newcomer is the second, more casual outpost of the much-feted Angelina in Dalston – the spot that put London's Italian-Japanese mash-up on the map. Here, the tasting menus are swapped for a breezy à la carte, but the bold fusion of flavours stays strong. The menu leans Italian in form (pane, fritti, crudo) yet draws on Japanese and East Asian flair, with dishes such as nori focaccia, courgette flower with miso ricotta, and truffle tortellini laced with kombu. Settle in at the marble bar by the open kitchen and soak up the perfect confluence of Italian hospitality and Japanese simplicity.

DRINKS

One Club Row

A slice of glam vintage New York City in the heart of Shoreditch, One Club Row has quickly won over both the flash-on Instagram crowd and the critics with its buzzy, captivating atmosphere. The tony retro design, with a dark wood bar and round tables with white tablecloths, sets the stage for a menu inspired by Parisian and New York bistro classics, all conjured from British produce. Caesar salad, steak tartare, curried moules frites, and an au poivre cheeseburger invite you to linger long after finishing your expertly stirred martini.

STEP INSIDE 25 AT SOMERSET HOUSE

September 13–14

Somerset House is celebrating its 25th anniversary by throwing open its doors – and hidden spaces – for a weekend of art, music, and creative surprises. Expect immersive installations, performances, and workshops scattered throughout the Neoclassical landmark, from the underground Deadhouse to the tucked-away Maker Street. Turner Prize-winner Tai Shani debuts a striking courtyard sculpture, while fellow Studios artists Nick Ryan and Gaika bring their bold interventions to the building's secret corners. The programme also features a pop-up basketball court, a Cute-inspired disco with 1980s and 90s hits, and Peanuts-themed drawing sessions. Even Waterloo Bridge will light up in blue for the occasion.

LONDON DESIGN FESTIVAL

September 13–21

Each September, London transforms into a city-wide gallery as installations, pop-ups, and talks take over streets, studios, and landmark venues. Now in its 23rd year, the London Design Festival celebrates the capital's role on the global design stage with a packed programme of exhibitions, open studios, workshops, and other events. Early highlights include a giant work of public art titled 11 Million Dots on the façade of a new data centre in Park Royal, the House of Icon interior design show at Shoreditch Town Hall, and the Sound & Colour multisensory dining experience at Counter 71.

DO HO SUH: WALK THE HOUSE AT TATE MODERN

Until October 19

Tate Modern is hosting a rare London solo exhibition of work by Korean artist Do Ho Suh, who is known for his immersive, contemplation-inducing installations. Visitors can wander through the artist's translucent corridors and doorways, which are life-sized fabric recreations of homes and passageways that explore memory, identity, and the idea of a portable home. Alongside these signature works, the show covers three decades of Suh's practice, including delicate thread drawings, architectural rubbings, and photogrammetry videos that turn buildings into living records of past lives.

BFI LONDON FILM FESTIVAL

October 8–19

Sharp, offbeat, and culturally rich, British film and television have a certain unshakable flair. There's no better place to experience it than the BFI London Film Festival. Across 12 packed days, the 69th edition of this event showcases the world's best new films, series, and immersive works, all shown for the first time. This year's screenings unfold across the city at venues including the Royal Festival Hall, BFI IMAX, Curzon Soho, and the Institute of Contemporary Arts (ICA), with BFI Southbank hosting free events and in-depth talks. Kicking off the programme is the international premiere of Wake Up Dead Man: A Knives Out Mystery, screening here long before its official release. Tickets start at GBP 10.

Beyond the Centre Line

Four boroughs worth leaving Zone 1 for

Tooting Bec Lido

WANDSWORTH

Named the London Borough of Culture for 2025, Wandsworth mixes leafy charm with a creative pulse. Start with a morning swim at Tooting Bec Lido, Europe's largest outdoor pool, before a stroll along the River Wandle Path into Earlsfield's village-like streets. Nearby, the dramatic Royal Victoria Patriotic Building is a Gothic-style landmark worth a detour. In Battersea Park, opt for mini golf or a boat ride on the lake, then round off the day at the Omnibus Theatre, an independent, award-winning spot for sharp, contemporary productions.

Greenwich Hill

GREENWICH

Maritime history and market life come together in Greenwich on London's southeastern edge. Begin at the Royal Observatory, where you can straddle the Prime Meridian, then wander through Greenwich Park for sweeping views of the city. Step aboard the historic Cutty Sark, the world's last surviving tea clipper, before browsing the stalls at Greenwich Market for street food and handmade finds. Finish with a pint at a classic riverside pub, or hop on a Thames Clipper for a scenic ride back to central London.

Richmond

RICHMOND UPON THAMES

City life seems a world away in this leafy West London jewel. Start in Richmond Park, where herds of deer roam ancient woodlands, before strolling down to the Thames Path for classic pub lunches with views of the river. Nearby, the grand Hampton Court Palace offers a deep dive into Tudor history, while Petersham Nurseries tempts with garden lunches and floral treasures. The Royal Botanic Gardens, dating back to the 18th century and a UNESCO Heritage Site, houses the world's most diverse botanical and mycological collection. End the day in the Richmond town centre, browsing boutiques or catching the sunset from Richmond Hill, one of London's prettiest viewpoints.

Narrowboat locks in Hanwell, Ealing

EALING

A West London borough with a creative soul, Ealing mixes park life with cultural heritage. Visit Ealing Studios, the birthplace of British cinema, or explore Pitzhanger Manor and Gallery, a striking Georgian house turned art space. Stroll through Walpole Park's landscaped gardens before discovering the indie shops and cafés at Ealing Broadway. Time your visit for one of the borough's lively festivals – Ealing's jazz, comedy, and beer festivals are local favourites – and wrap it all up with a drink at a classic Victorian pub.

EAT THE DAY!

From early-morning pastries to late-night street food, here's how a perfect day's menu might unfold across the continent.

Fly to Copenhagen from €35* one way

airBaltic* flies to Cpenhagen from Riga and Tallinn. Prices may differ when departing from different airports.

BREAKFAST IN COPENHAGEN

Nobody does breakfast better than the Danish. The classic BMO plate (brød, mejeri og ost, meaning 'bread, dairy, and cheese') is the foundation: slices of sourdough, wedges of cheese, a soft-boiled egg, maybe a swipe of butter and a puddle of jam. But it doesn't end there. Copenhagen cafés also excel in beautifully plated granola bowls and porridges upped with seasonal goodies. This is the place to be in the morning, where breakfast is not just the most important meal of the day but the most exciting one, too. What unites all these dishes is a distinctly Scandinavian eye for aesthetics, with each beautifully plated.

Kismet

A relaxed, everyday café and bakery in the city centre, Kismet is the kind of place cool locals use as their daily hangout, for a meal with friends, or as a site for work meetings. The space is airy and has an outdoor patio that catches the sun and is perfect for enjoying a meal outside. The classic morning plate includes a boiled egg, sourdough, North Sea cheese, whipped butter, and apple jam, but you'll also find cardamom buns, yoghurt bowls, and Turkish eggs. After 11 a.m., the kitchen turns out punchy plates like grilled cheese with apricot chutney and gochujang mayo, or a fattoush salad that changes with the seasons. Open until 6 p.m., the last hours shift into apéro time, often featuring collaborations with brands, winemakers, and other Copenhagen creatives.

Lille Fugl

Housed on the ground floor of the Gammel Strand art centre and museum, Lille Fugl is a small oasis in the hustle and bustle of the city. Breakfast might mean the BMO plate with sourdough or rye, delicious cheese, seasonal compote, a soft-boiled egg, and butter. Or it might also be a yoghurt bowl, Turkish eggs, or a mountain of soft scrambled eggs. Later in the day, the menu shifts to kimchi and 'nduja toasts, quiches, bar snacks, and natural wine. Everything is made with organic produce, with the bread and pastries arriving twice daily from the café's own bakery.

Studio x Kitchen

For those who eat with their eyes as much as their stomach, Studio x Kitchen is a joy. The space is minimalist yet warm, with Scandinavian design details, beautiful flower arrangements, and ceramics worth lingering over. The folded eggs are the star and are served with small gem lettuce or anchovies, sprinkled with parmesan, or swimming in rich 'nduja butter with crusty focaccia. There's also a granola bowl almost too pretty to disturb, and a classic breakfast plate with seeded rye and salted butter. Seasonal dishes appear regularly, from porcini mushroom porridge to whatever the market has inspired that week, plus a counter of in-house sweet treats to round things off. Take a seat by the large windows and watch the city roll by.

COFFEE & PASTRY IN AMSTERDAM

Amsterdam has become a hotbed for a new generation of bakers flexing their buttery prowess. From phenomenal laminated goods to inventive riffs on classic Viennoiserie, the city's pastry scene is in full bloom. Most of these venues pair their craft carbs with seriously well-brewed coffee, and if you're not in the mood for beans, an expertly made matcha will more than hold its own.

Farine

This spot nails the neighbourhood bakery concept. French boulangerie at heart, but with a playful edge, Farine turns out top-tier sourdough loaves – including gluten-free versions – alongside flawlessly flaky croissants, almond croissants, and dainty financiers. The glassy, double-height façade allows light to flood the space, which is a refreshing change from the usual bakery cocoon. Clara, the pastry chef, keeps the counter dynamic with seasonal specials. Plus, there are kimchi toasts and fresh sandwiches made with local ham and cheese. Coffee and matcha? Both on point.

Louf

With three locations scattered across the city, Louf is a safe bet for excellent bread, coffee, and bakes. Each outpost shares the brand's signature look of warm wood interiors and generous daylight and is equally suited for a quick grab-and-go or a leisurely morning session. The lineup includes classic sourdough loaves and baguettes, croissants (from cheese mustard to ham and cheese), cinnamon swirl buns, and peanut butter–miso cookies. Sandwiches on fresh sourdough buns rotate seasonally. The original Bilderdijkstraat location has old-world charm with its stained glass windows, and De Pijp's branch offers leafy outdoor seating.

Layers

This is the hot new carby venue everyone's talking about. Pastry chef and co-owner Alexandre Scour is originally from Brittany and has made a name for himself here with his unapologetic love of butter. Ten creations roll out fresh each day, from textbook-perfect pain au chocolat to seasonal one-offs like blueberry croissant tartes, plus savoury numbers such as pain suisse with bacon and comté. Hypnos Studio's stainless-steel fit-out swaps the usual bakery warmth for sleek, gallery-like openness, with an open kitchen that lets you watch the lamination unfold. The same inventive streak runs through the deli, where Japanese milk bread and croissant sandwiches come with bold fillings. The trademark dish is the fried chicken croissant burger.

SUNDAY ROAST IN LONDON

Many cultures do long lunches, but not quite as hearty as Sunday midday fare in Britain. The Sunday roast has long been part of British life: a plate of roast beef or chicken, crisp potatoes, vegetables, Yorkshire pudding, and gravy. It began as a post-church family meal and went on to become a fixture of the pub menu. For a while, it slipped into the background. But in the wake of all things British trending again, the roast is firmly back. A new generation is embracing it, and pubs across London are filling up every weekend.

The Devonshire

Lovingly referred to as The Dev, this elegant, old-school Soho boozer has become one of the most talked-about spots in the city. It recently landed second on the Estrella Damm Top 50 Gastropubs list and backs that accomplishment up with substance: an upstairs grill room, Sunday roasts that mean business, and a rooftop terrace for summer. There are two roast menus, depending on how hungry you are, but both feature the classics: roast rib, potatoes, Yorkshire pudding, proper gravy, and sticky toffee pudding. Getting a table is a feat in itself, with queues, booking battles, and celeb sightings to prove it.

The Harwood Arms

Proudly carrying its status as London's only Michelin-starred pub, this Fulham old-timer serves classic roasts with quiet precision and bucolic charm and excels in expertly prepared British game. Sunday roast classics such as venison Scotch egg, cod roe crisps, and slow-cooked deer shoulder come with all the trimmings: Yorkshire pudding, roast potatoes, baked carrots, cauliflower cheese and greens. It's a roast done properly, and it's available all day on Sundays.

Walham Grove, SW6 1QP

The Prince Arthur

A corner pub in London Fields, The Prince Arthur serves up classic British charm with its dark wood panelling, curved bar, and the kind of atmosphere that makes you want to linger. Since its 2020 relaunch, the team has whipped up an unfussy menu that pays homage to the Sunday roast while giving it just enough edge. Highlights include aged beef topside with house horseradish, thyme and pine nut porchetta, and a rolled hogget leg with basil pesto. There's also a vegetarian option, and all roasts come with Yorkshire pudding, crisp potatoes, lemon butter cabbage, glazed parsnips, and heritage carrots.

APERITIVO IN MILAN

The aperitivo – an early evening meet-up for a drink and a few small bites before dinner – might be Italy's most beloved ritual. A spritz, a negroni, maybe a well-chilled prosecco sets the tone and is accompanied by stuzzichini – snacks such as focaccia, pickled vegetables, savoury cheeses, salumi, or whatever else the kitchen feels inspired to serve. Milan is one of the best cities to embrace this tradition, with spots ranging from timeworn neighbourhood bars to polished hotel rooftops.

Lacerba

Inspired by Futurist art, Lacerba reflects the spirit of the movement through its prints, posters, and an eccentric collection of objects scattered throughout the bar. Located just off Corso di Porta Romana, this quirky, arty spot draws an eclectic crowd and serves as both cocktail bar and restaurant. The drinks list is extensive, with an entire page devoted to Bloody Mary variations, and is best enjoyed alongside moreish nibbles such as fried calamari, cured meats, and beef tartare. Downstairs, the restaurant offers a more grown-up experience, with a menu that reworks Italian classics.

Bar Nico

Bar Nico is the new-gen take on the aperitivo bar – sleek, minimal, and built for a younger, design-aware crowd. Set in a former pasta shop, the original Pastificio signage remains, while the interior now features Thonet chairs, an aluminium counter, and candles flickering against metallic finishes. Natural wine is the focus here, with a rotating list of bottles from small producers across Italy, France, Austria, and Germany. The small-bites menu changes often, is built around seasonal produce, and is perfect for a low-key aperitivo that stretches into the night.

Osteria Alla Concorrenza

This is the kind of place you wish was on your corner. The Osteria Alla Concorrenza keeps things simple, with straightforward Italian dishes served without fuss, on mismatched plates, surrounded by walls lined with wine bottles and framed photos. The blackboard menu changes regularly, with small dishes that carry you from aperitivo to midnight, no other dinner needed. Located on Via Melzo in the heart of the Porta Venezia neighbourhood, it's relaxed, generous, and full of warmth – the kind of place that quietly nails Italian hospitality.

DINNER IN PARIS

No dinner plays out quite like it does in Paris. Here the meal is both measured and elegant, the benchmark for how an evening meal should be experienced. Whether it's three unhurried courses at a trusted neighbourhood bistro or a set menu from one of France's most acclaimed chefs, every detail is deliberate. Expect excellent homegrown wine, superb cheese, warm crusty bread set on the table without a word, and service that seems to know your needs well before even you do. In Paris, dinner is a sacred ritual – never rushed, always exacting.

Prevelle

Romain Meder, the former executive chef at Alain Ducasse's Plaza Athénée (three Michelin stars), has opened his first solo restaurant in Paris. Named after his home village, Prevelle is a deeply personal project both in terms of style and substance. The pale wood interiors, curved sofas, and soft rugs set a calm, confident tone, while the kitchen sends out confident, seasonal cooking: fish, chicken, lobster, caviar, and an abundance of vegetables from long-time producers. The wine list is exclusively French and is overseen by Vincent Cochard, formerly of L'Arpège.

Dandelion

Dandelion is an intimate bistro helmed by chef Antoine Villard and sommelier Morgane Souris, both of whom honed their skills in legendary Paris establishments such as Septime and Parcelles. Waxed concrete and vintage Italian fixtures set the tone for a romantic spot without any sip of pretence. Bread from Ten Belles appears alongside an ever-changing à la carte menu that keeps things fresh and compelling. The service is warm, and the wine list is well thought out. It's a place where you'll want to linger a bit longer.

16 Rue de la Forge Royale

19 Saint Roch

Set in the central 1st arrondissement and one of the most talked-about Paris openings of 2024, 19 Saint Roch is helmed by Pierre Touitou, who is a chef, a restaurateur, and an emblem of the new Parisian bistronomy. Style runs in his family, which founded the hip Parisian fashion house A.P.C. The monochrome tomette tiles lead you to a stainless steel counter, which is the best seat in the house for watching Touitou and his superb, attentive team at full tilt. And, grounded in French technique yet infused with the flavours of a well-travelled palate, the cooking certainly delivers.

A LATE-NIGHT BITE IN ATHENS

Athens has claimed its place as the Mediterranean's nightlife capital, where dinner starts late and often blurs into dawn. At some point – between the bars, after dancing, or simply wandering the streets – the move is the same: grab a gyro or souvlaki, whether it's slow-roasted meat or skewers, wrapped in warm pita with salad and sauce. No frills, just pure satisfaction. The old-school street stands, many family-run for decades, know exactly how to keep the city fuelled until sunrise. Do as the locals do and take yours to Panathinaiko Stadium or climb Lycabettus Hill and watch Athens wake up.

Meat the Greek

Meat the Greek is a laid-back, centrally located spot that keeps things simple and satisfying. The menu sticks to the classics – pork, chicken, and beef gyros, plus a few options for vegetarians – served in generous portions without overcomplicating anything. There's also plenty of space to sit down and eat, making this an easy choice whether you're after a quick bite or a more relaxed meal.

Fokionos 2-4 | meatthegreek.gr

Lefteris o Politis

Athenian street food doesn't get more old-school than Lefteris o Politis, a standing-room-only institution that's been serving the same recipe since 1951. Founded by Istanbul-born refugee Stavros Savvoglou and now run by his grandson, it specialises in a singular beef kebab – long, marinated, meatball-shaped, and lightly charred – tucked into a soft, fluffy pita pressed against the grill to soak up the juices. The filling is strictly traditional: fresh tomato, onion, parsley, a dusting of paprika, and optional chilli flakes. No fries, no tzatziki, just the purist's version, unchanged since before those extras became the norm in the 1980s.

Satovriandou 20 | lefterisopolitis.gr

Souvlaki Kostas

A family-run old-timer in the heart of the Syntagma district, Souvlaki Kostas has been an Athenian lodestar since 1950. The walls – lined with magazine clippings, traveller shoutouts, and snapshots from decades past – tell this institution's story. The menu is as unfussy as it gets: juicy pork or beef souvlaki, a couple of soft drinks. No vegetarian options. Come lunchtime, the queues grow at an astounding rate, and by 3 p.m. it's all sold out. If you're out late, Souvlaki Kostas opens at 10 a.m., which is a good enough reason to stay on the dance floor a little longer.

THE ESSENCE OF HOME

This sun-kissed apartment in Barcelona, where several generations of the same family once lived, has gained a new lease on life with interiors inspired by craftsmanship, comfort, and domesticity. Nestled in the heart of the central Eixample district, it sits in a building constructed in 1925 and is now home to Bernat (an architect and one of the founders of Sigla Studio), his partner Liliana, and their cheerful Shiba Inu named Hachi. At the core of the 90-square-metre living space is the building's traditional Catalan architecture, which is a characteristic feature of homes in central Barcelona.

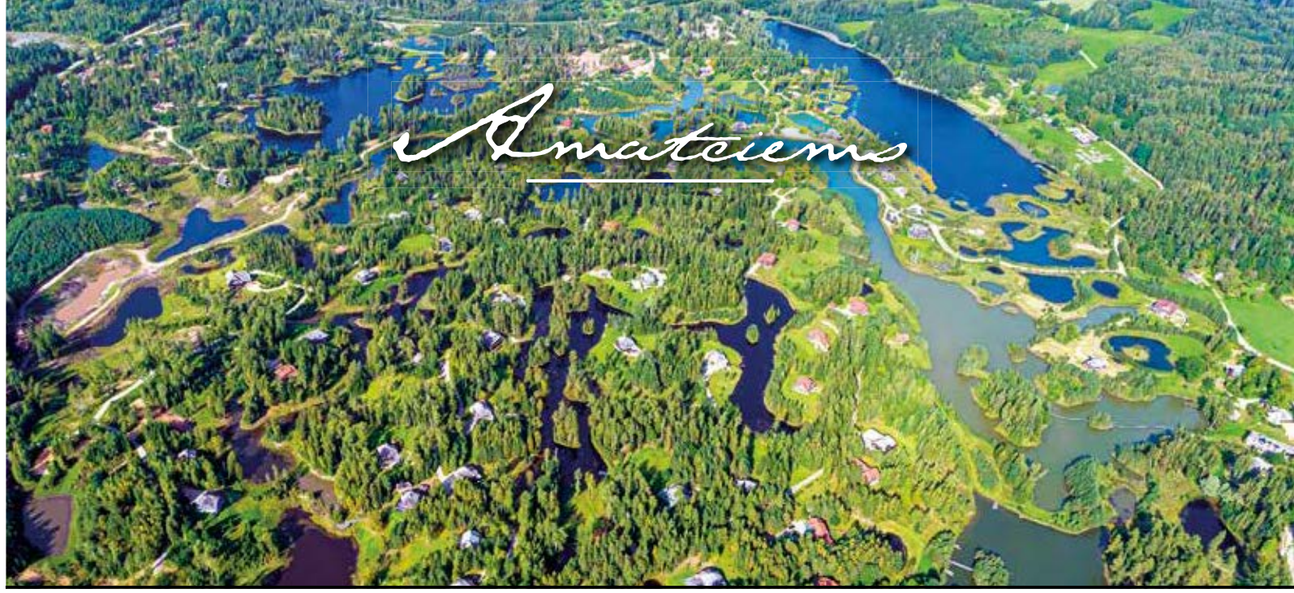

▲The kitchen was relocated from a small, dark interior space to a wider, light-filled area that opens onto the courtyard. To 'recover the aura of architectural honesty', many surfaces throughout the home were restored, including the original wooden beams and the ceramic vaulted ceilings.

► The so-called 'day area' is conceived as a single open space that unites several interrelated zones: the living and dining room, the kitchen, and the study. Here, a custom terrazzo desktop meets a mid-century style icon – the Carl Hansen CH24 chair. Original textures such as exposed brick walls, limewash, and plaster create a tactile backdrop for inspiration and creativity.

▲◄ From the very beginning, it was clear to the owners that the greatest luxury comes from comfort. ‘Privacy and a sense of home were the essential feelings we wanted to achieve. In practice, it turns out that it’s much easier to recognise the absence of comfort than its presence. The convenience of a table within reach, the efficiency of adjustable lighting, domestic rituals such as a cup of coffee while watching the sunrise, the physical ease of deep chairs and soft cushions...all these elements combined create the atmosphere of inner calm that defines the kind of comfort we were seeking,’ says Bernat.

▲ The selection of furniture and signature lighting in the apartment features 20th-century design classics. High ceilings with wooden beams and ceramic vaults, along with rooms that feel like interconnected boxes, are typical of modernist buildings from early 20th-century Barcelona. The artwork – including paintings, serigraphs, photography, and ceramics – is by local as well as international contemporary artists.

◄ The bathroom surfaces are finished in lime stucco, while the sink is crafted from Carrara marble. Restored solid pinewood doors paired with statement parquet floors add a particularly pleasant and tactile quality to the space. These ecological native materials reflect the essence of authentic Catalan architecture. bo

DAUGAVPILS:
WHERE CULTURE MEETS MODERN INDUSTRY

Daugavpils, the vibrant heart of southeastern Latvia, is about to enter a new chapter in its story – one that blends world-class culture with a bold vision for industry.

Known for its spectacular 19th-century fortress – one of the best-preserved bastion-type fortifications in Europe – and the internationally acclaimed Rothko Museum, Daugavpils is already a cultural destination. But now, with the launch of ALTOP Industrial Park, it's also setting the stage for an industrial renaissance.

As Latvia's second-largest city, Daugavpils is strategically connected to Riga, Vilnius, Warsaw, and beyond. It's a city of open horizons, where culture, creativity, and commerce meet. Every year, thousands of visitors come to explore its historic fortress, stroll along its charming streets, and experience the unique fusion of Latvian, Polish, Russian, Jewish, and other cultural influences. This cosmopolitan spirit is exactly what makes Daugavpils not just a beautiful place to visit but also a smart place to invest.

Opening in early 2026, ALTOP Industrial Park will transform the city's economic landscape. The energy-efficient, two-storey Grade A building will span 11,000 square metres and be divided into flexible production and office spaces. With state-of-the-art infrastructure – including electric vehicle charging stations, full accessibility for people with disabilities, and adaptable layouts – the park is designed for the future of work.

From pharmaceuticals and medical technology to engineering, IT, and smart energy, ALTOP is ready to host forward-thinking companies in diverse fields. High ceilings (up to 8.2 metres) and a maximum distributed load of 43 kilonewtons per square metre make it ideal even for large-scale manufacturing.

Tenants at ALTOP won't just benefit from modern facilities; they'll also gain access to significant tax incentives in the Latgale Special Economic Zone, including 80% discount for corporate income tax and up to 100% discount on real estate tax when investing in new products and technologies. Spaces are available for lease now, with the option to secure one, two, or all three zones of the building.

Imagine running your business in a city where innovation is fuelled by inspiration – where your lunch break can include a walk past centuries-old fortress walls or where you can spend your free time exploring the Rothko Museum. Daugavpils offers not only competitive business conditions but also a high quality of life for employees and their families, with excellent housing, education, and a vibrant cultural scene.

ALTOP Industrial Park is more than just a building – it's a statement that Daugavpils is ready for the next level of industrial growth. This is a unique opportunity for investors, entrepreneurs, and innovators to be part of a city where the past, present, and future meet in one inspiring location.

KIA'S COMMITMENT TO SUSTAINABLE AUTOMOTIVE INNOVATION

The automotive industry is undergoing significant transformation, which is driven by technological advancements, regulatory changes, and shifting consumer preferences.

Today's car buyers increasingly demand vehicles that not only offer performance, safety, and reliability but also demonstrate genuine environmental stewardship. The automotive industry has often faced criticism for 'greenwashing', that is, making ambitious environmental claims that do not align with actual practices. Kia, however, distinguishes itself by substantiating its sustainability commitments through tangible actions and measurable outcomes. The company has emerged as a leading example by actively pursuing sustainability through concrete initiatives. A notable illustration of this approach is Kia's electric SUV, the EV9, which integrates floor mats produced from recycled fishing nets, thus directly addressing the urgent global challenge of ocean plastic pollution.

Recently, Kia earned recognition as the Sustainability Disruptor of the Year for its impactful collaboration with The Ocean Cleanup, a project that's focused on reducing ocean plastic waste through the integration of recycled materials into vehicle production. This award underscores the growing importance of transparency and accountability within the industry, especially given stringent new regulatory standards that mandate verified proof to support sustainability claims.

An additional driving force behind Kia's sustainability strategy is the growing scarcity of traditional resources, such as petroleum. Professor Žaneta Stasiškienė, who serves as the director of the Institute of Environmental Engineering at Kaunas University of Technology, highlights the urgency with which automotive manufacturers must develop and adopt alternative, sustainable materials. 'Given the finite availability of petroleum-based resources, automotive manufacturers must rapidly transition to sustainable alternatives,' she says. 'These alternative materials must match conventional counterparts in quality and functionality while significantly enhancing environmental benefits, particularly in recycling efficacy.'

Stasiškienė emphasises that thorough lifecycle assessments are critical to understanding the environmental impacts of new materials, from their initial production through to recycling or natural decomposition. 'Presently, sustainable materials are most feasibly integrated into automotive interior components, such as seat fabrics and floor mats,' she adds.

Kia is actively engaged in converting waste products into valuable automotive materials. According to Stasiškienė, using industrial byproducts, including recycled paper and coconut fibres, effectively diverts these materials from landfills, offering new possibilities for automotive production.

For instance, Kia's compact electric SUV, the EV3, incorporates 28.5 kilograms of recycled plastics sourced from household and automotive waste. These recycled materials are utilised extensively throughout the vehicle, including critical exterior components such as bumpers, grilles, and door panels. While 28.5 kilograms may seem modest compared to the overall vehicle weight, Stasiškienė emphasises its significance: 'Replacing traditional automotive materials with recycled alternatives substantially reduces the environmental footprint.'

Kia continually seeks new methods to enhance sustainability, including by refining production processes and raising supplier standards. Among its innovative concepts is the aspiration to create vehicles made entirely from recyclable materials.

However, Stasiškienė points out practical challenges associated with achieving full recyclability. 'While it's theoretically possible to manufacture a fully recyclable vehicle, significant practical limitations, notably safety standards, present considerable obstacles,' she explains. 'The automotive industry should instead prioritise minimising environmental impacts throughout a vehicle's entire lifecycle.'

Furthermore, Stasiškienė highlights that recycling is only one component of comprehensive sustainability. Equally essential is the transformation of mobility systems to encourage more efficient vehicle usage, ultimately yielding greater long-term environmental benefits.

ESTONIA LEADS THE WORLD IN ACADEMIC FREEDOM.

HOW DID IT HAPPEN?

According to the 2025 Global Academic Freedom Index, Estonia ranks second in the world, just after the Czech Republic.

'Estonia is one of the countries with the highest levels of academic freedom in the world,' explains Dr. Angelo Vito Panaro, a postdoctoral researcher at the Institute of Political Science at Friedrich-Alexander-Universität of Erlangen-Nürnberg in Germany. This recognition stands out in a time when academic freedom is under growing pressure around the world. Dr. Panaro is involved in the Academic Freedom Index research project, which assesses levels of academic freedom worldwide. 'Estonia ranks among the highest in the world and has performed well since 1993,' he concludes.

Academic freedom is a heated topic in many countries, where scholars have faced political pressure, funding cuts, arrests, and ideological interference. The 2025 Update of the Academic Freedom Index draws attention to these specific threats. In the report, researchers underlined the connection between anti-pluralist parties in power and episodes of academic freedom being threatened. Why does Estonia stand out? According to Dr. Panaro, the Baltic country has very strong legal protection. Paragraph 38 of Estonia's constitution states: 'Science and art and their teachings are free. Universities and research institutions are autonomous within the limits prescribed by the law.' But legal guarantees are only part of the story. Estonia's broader political culture has also contributed to safeguarding academic freedom.

Estonia's government stands out with the commitments it has made, for example, through the Bologna Process and transformative changes in education. 'Estonia has shown a strong commitment to investing in education,' Dr. Panaro says. He also emphasises that the country has embraced digital openness and fostered a culture of innovation, becoming a leading country in this regard.

The index builds on five indicators that capture distinct dimensions of academic freedom and draws on the assessments of 2363 country experts. The data include more than one million data points at the coder level and are publicly available. 'When computing the index, the IRT-measurement model controls for potential biases, such as how reliable each expert is compared to others, and how their understanding of the rating scale may differ from the rest,' Dr. Panaro explains.

'Small countries tend to do better academically,' says Jüri Allik, a professor of experimental psychology at the University of Tartu. He has spent years analysing the success story of Estonian scientists. In his research paper 'Factors Predicting the Scientific Wealth of Nations', he and his co-authors examined various factors that influence how scientifically successful a country is. They concluded that economic wealth does not automatically lead to scientific wealth, as is often presumed.

'Small and well-governed countries with a long-standing democratic past seem to be more efficient in translating economic wealth into high-quality science,' the authors wrote. Estonia consistently ranks well in the High Quality Science Index.

'The simple explanation is that when you're that small, you can't afford to do bad science. You can't afford to be sloppy,' Allik explains. Decades of Soviet occupation also affected how freedom is viewed. He adds: 'When you live as long as Estonians have without freedom, it becomes dear to you.' Even though there have been attempts by the government to intervene, Estonian academics have always stood firm against it. 'More than anything else, inclusive societies do better,' Allik says. Whether people feel included in society matters.

The 2025 Update of the Academic Freedom Index warns that academic freedom has been eroding even in democratic countries over the past ten years. Comparing levels in 2024 with those in 2014, academic freedom declined significantly in 34 countries, including Finland, for example. But not in Estonia. 'Academic freedom is also connected to democracy,' Dr. Panaro explains. 'It's one of the cornerstones of any democratic regime.' To resist threats, institutions must be strengthened through the constitution.

To protect academic freedom, we must raise awareness. Why? Because good ideas come from a healthy society.

WHITEHOUSE

An unforgettable flavour experience in the heart of Riga.

WHITEHOUSE

Address: Tērbatas iela 2, Riga
Phone: +371 20 225 000
Website: whitehouserestorans.lv

Set within a beautifully restored historic building in the heart of Vērmane Garden – one of Riga's most enchanting parks – Whitehouse invites guests on an unforgettable culinary journey. Each dish is a carefully composed symphony of unique flavours and artful presentation, designed to delight every sense from the moment you arrive. This dedication to excellence has earned Whitehouse a coveted recommendation from the prestigious Michelin Guide, which names it among Riga's must-visit dining destinations.

Open from 12:00 noon, Whitehouse offers the rare pleasure of leisurely daytime dining in an elegant setting. In autumn, the restaurant's spacious terrace becomes a stage for nature's most breathtaking performance, as the park's golden foliage creates a backdrop as unforgettable as the cuisine itself.

With its international cuisine and diverse Asian flavours, Whitehouse attracts local and international foodies. By using only the finest ingredients and specially sourced produce from around the world, chef Reinis Čerņajevs has created a high-class menu that's available on a daily basis, not just on special occasions. 'Here at Whitehouse, our guests go on a journey of flavour,' he says.

The Whitehouse team is convinced that the best restaurant experiences involve learning something new, and this is why the team is not afraid of being adventurous in offering guests new and sometimes even seemingly incompatible flavour combinations. 'According to the Whitehouse philosophy, the experience of going to a restaurant is also about acquiring new knowledge. That's why it's important to us to offer variety and also to educate our guests by showing them that, for example, wild-caught scallops taste completely different and much better than farmed ones,' says Inese Vīcupa, the manager of the Whitehouse restaurant.

To make your restaurant experience even more enjoyable, Whitehouse has added a new category to its menu, called Small Bites, which can be enjoyed with one of the restaurant's excellent cocktails or a glass of wine on the terrace. The selection includes pâté and homemade focaccia as well as stracciatella and Faroe Islands salmon tartare. Restaurant guests have already praised the new menu for being light, seasonal, and consistently interesting with bold combinations, all the while not forgetting classic flavours.

A new cocktail menu is available to Whitehouse visitors as well. Dedicated to the 12 months of the year, each cocktail symbolises one month and features flavours that are characteristic of it. For example, the September cocktail with gin, Campari, and prosecco is meant for those who are smart, composed, and a little intense. They know who they are, and it shows. They prefer quality over quantity, and value depth over noise. The signature cocktails are masterfully crafted by some of Latvia's top bartenders and showcase their exceptional skill and creativity. For those who prefer a non-alcoholic option, several equally delicious versions are available. For wine lovers, the restaurant has prepared a special treat – wines from Piedmont and Campania that are available exclusively at the Whitehouse restaurant and the events it hosts. Whitehouse is undoubtedly a place where life is celebrated – and where it should be celebrated.

With its spacious layout, central location, convenient amenities, and top-tier gastronomy, the restaurant has also become a sought-after destination for private gatherings and special occasions. The two rooms above the main floor can seat up to 500 people. The restaurant team provides full-service catering and can recommend the best event organisers, decorators, and other event professionals, depending on the client's needs.

In preparation for the autumn and winter event season, the Whitehouse team invites you to remember to make your private event reservations early. With its high-quality service and prime location, the restaurant is a popular venue for a wide range of celebrations. Whitehouse's dining rooms host a variety of private and corporate events almost every week, from wedding receptions to seminars and even fashion shows. In addition to the professional service and journey of flavours it provides, one of the restaurant's greatest strengths is its convenient location. Just a five-minute stroll from several of Riga's top hotels, Whitehouse is an ideal setting for your next event. Its spacious terrace with sweeping views of Vērmane Garden adds an unforgettable backdrop to any occasion.

Whether you're a passionate foodie seeking a culinary journey or simply wish to enjoy a glass of wine on one of Riga's largest and most lively restaurant terraces, Whitehouse delivers. From intimate private parties to leisurely solo lunches, it offers the perfect blend of elegance and comfort.

OLIVIA RESTAURANT

AN UNFORGETTABLE GASTRONOMY EXPERIENCE

Mediterranean cuisine with hints of Scandinavian flavour.

For more than three years now, Olivia Restaurant has been welcoming Rigans and guests to the city with a combination of Mediterranean and Northern traditions and foods that are not available anywhere else in Latvia.

In creating the menu, the team at Olivia Restaurant has taken inspiration from French, Italian, Greek, and Spanish gastronomic traditions, and has also included hints of Asian flavours and combined everything with the chef's own passion for experimental cuisine. However, the team always pays the most attention to the ingredients they use – they must be not only seasonal but also clean and organically grown.'Fresh produce and ingredients are the most important thing. They must be not only correctly grown, obtained, and delivered but also be processed correctly in our kitchen,' says the chef. 'Therefore our task is to find produce and meats of excellent quality, prepare them with respect, and serve them in an agreeable setting. In addition, it's important for us to give thought to each ingredient, from the fish and meat all the way to the mushrooms and berries, which are, for example, gathered in the forests of northern Finland. If each of the ingredients in a dish is of the highest quality, then the meal is truly delicious and enjoyable.'

Olivia Restaurant is distinct not only for its high-quality produce and unique flavours and manner of preparation, but also for its general philosophy. Each food on the menu has a story of its own. The main menu highlights fish and seafood: the Mediterranean turbot is from the French coast, where it is raised on an organic fish farm, while the North Sea cod is caught in the Barents Sea and the shrimp are supplied from Canada. The swordfish comes from the Atlantic Ocean and sometimes takes more than 20 hours to be delivered to the restaurant. Olivia Restaurant is the only restaurant in Latvia to have been granted an official catch quota for bluefin tuna, leading its restaurant team to create a unique concept for Riga – a tuna menu.

The Olivia Restaurant team has also kept meat lovers in mind. Most of its meats come from Ireland because in addition to having been quality meat producers for many generations, the Irish are also able to ensure that the meat delivered to the restaurant is organically grown, tender, juicy, and full of flavour.

The dessert menu at Olivia Restaurant is not large, but each of the dishes contains refined, nuanced flavours that might even recall childhood. One of the favourite desserts at the restaurant is the caramelised Brunost, or cheese cream with cloudberries from the Arctic – guests call it an absolute masterpiece. Another highlight is the chocolate brownie with black garlic and lingonberry sauce, which once again confirms the chef's tendency to not shy away from experimenting with various flavours and manners of preparation. It is precisely for this reason that the menu at Olivia Restaurant often features fermented products made on site at the restaurant, including nuts, egg yolks, and kombucha, which features in several sauces.

Olivia Restaurant is located in a two-storey wooden building dating to the 19th century in the heart of Riga's Art Nouveau district. The restaurant has taken care not only with its gastronomic offer but also its visual image. Naturally, the exterior attracts attention, but so does the well-considered interior with its subtle colours, brick walls, velvet, copper, wood, and the romance of an attic space. Because Olivia Restaurant can accommodate up to 100 guests, the restaurant's unforced informal atmosphere is ideal for meetings with friends and romantic dinners as well as for business meetings and larger celebrations.

A BEER BAR FOR ENJOYMENT AND TASTING

As one of the city's hidden gems, the Beer Museum bar has been serving customers in the Quiet Centre of Riga for several years now. The name may be misleading, but anyone who has ever been there knows that no other place in Riga can compete with Beer Museum's range of premium beers on offer.

Beer Museum stands out with its more than twenty premium beers on tap, including beers that are not always easy to find elsewhere in the Baltics. Beer Museum offers guests excellent beers from various countries, including the best breweries in Latvia, Ireland, Belgium, and the Netherlands. Most of the varieties on offer are world champions and have won many prestigious awards. Beer Museum also brews its own amber lager, dark lager, and pilsner.

When they walk into Beer Museum, in addition to the excellent beer collection, guests will notice several hundred different types of whisky, rum, tequila, and other alcoholic beverages from all around the world, including unique and very rare drinks. Scan the QR code to find out more. Much of Beer Museum's range is also available by the glass. And the bartenders will gladly whip up a wide variety of cocktails on request, too. The beer can be served for taking away.

Beer Museum's name reflects the personal interest of its owner, who is a big beer lover himself and wanted to open a place that offered premium quality. When at Beer Museum, trust the knowledge of the bartenders and their recommendations. Enjoying beer is a process in which the emotions that the guest wants to feel are also important. Don't shy away from asking the bartender for advice. And don't be shy about sitting at the bar, either, because that's where the best conversations take place.

Since the day it opened, Beer Museum has remained constant not only in the quality of its offer but also in its opening hours – visitors are welcome every day until three o'clock the next morning. Here you'll meet a great variety of people, from visitors to the city to locals just looking to refresh and relax a bit from the commotion of everyday life. There are 50 seats in the bar, and you will be welcomed not only to choose from the wide selection of drinks, but to enjoy the music as well.

Beer Museum is a great place to sample a variety of beers, whiskey, gin, rum, tequila, and meet friends in a sophisticated atmosphere. It's a place where the smallest details have been thought of, including décor, music, delicious snacks, and hospitality.

ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION HAS A NEGATIVE EFFECT. SELLING, PURCHASING OR HANDING OVER TO AN UNDER-AGE PERSON IS PROHIBITED.

ZIVJU LETE – INSPIRED BY THE SEA

A centuries-old bond with the sea and fishing is an integral part of Baltic culture. Some time ago, Latvians even had 'fish day' once a week, on Thursdays. The ethos behind Zivju Lete is to make every day a fish day!

Born from the love of seafood and Latvia's fishing heritage, Zivju Lete first opened its doors in 2015. The concept of a place specialising in fish – something that was lacking on Riga's gastronomic scene – was an instant success. First, the restaurant offered a small menu that changed regularly depending on the catch of the day. But the demand for seafood delicacies has been growing, and in 2018 Zivju Lete relocated to new, more spacious premises.

The new restaurant has introduced a more varied menu, where everyone can find a dish to their liking. Zivju Lete's cuisine combines the best of fish and seafood recipes, both local and international. The menu features well-known classics like tartares, fish soups, mussels, and seafood sauté as well as some regional specialties, such as Baltic herring and sprats. The main goal of Zivju Lete's cooking style is to showcase the seafood's beauty without over-complicating its natural flavour. Recently, the specially invited chef from Italy, Andrea Salvatori, has added flawless Mediterranean flair to the restaurant's cuisine with signature grilled dishes.

An actual zivju lete (or 'fish counter') forms the centrepiece of the open-plan kitchen. Here the best of the sea is displayed, from local fish to exotic seafood. What sets Zivju Lete apart is that it offers all of this at a reasonable price point. Whether it's the finer end of the spectrum, like oysters and lobster, or fish brought by local fishmongers – seafood can and must be enjoyed every day. To fulfil this initiative, Zivju Lete has created a menu that includes an extensive choice of foods, including the simple fish and chips with cod.

The laid-back and casual atmosphere is also imprinted in Zivju Lete's design. Located in one of the most beautiful and prestigious parts of Riga, the restaurant's interior is far from snobby or pretentious. A combination of fishing-boat décor, handmade wood furniture, vintage glass tiles, and unique design elements make for a cheerful, coastal vibe. In fact, when visiting Zivju Lete, one can almost hear the waves and expect the fisherman whose tattoos inspired the restaurant's wall painting to walk in through the door at any given moment.

Relaxing in Dubai

Not ready to say goodbye to summer just yet?

We hear you. airBaltic's network is brimming with sunny Southern getaways where warm days linger well into autumn. From golden beaches to culture-rich cities and unforgettable food scenes, these destinations make it easy to stretch out that summertime feeling a little longer. Whether you're after a quick weekend escape or a full-blown holiday, we've got just the ticket to swap grey clouds for clear blue skies.

LARNACA

Cyprus' laid-back port city stays warm well into October, with daytime temperatures around 27°C and calm, clear waters that are ideal for swimming. Finikoudes Beach is lined with palms and cafés, and the upgraded Larnaca Marina features broad waterfront promenades that are perfect for evening strolls. Historical landmarks such as the 9th-century Church of Saint Lazarus and the Hala Sultan Tekke mosque by the shimmering Salt Lake bring centuries of culture into easy reach. Larnaca is also one of the Mediterranean's most satisfying foodie destinations, with the local cuisine reflecting both Greek and Turkish influences. Expect mezze spreads with halloumi, olives, and warm bread, sheftalia sausages grilled over charcoal, moussaka baked to perfection, and fresh seafood served in small fishing tavernas along the coast.

Travel to Larnaca from EUR 115 one way.

MALTA

With over seven hours of sunshine daily and highs of 25°C in autumn, Malta boasts warm weather alongside centuries of history. Valletta's UNESCO-listed streets are home to St. John's Co-Cathedral and the recently restored MUŻA national community art museum. Just beyond the capital, the fortified city of Mdina offers panoramic views and quiet stone alleys, while Gozo's rugged cliffs and Comino's Blue Lagoon remain inviting well into the season. With specialties like flaky pastizzi and rich rabbit stew, Maltese cuisine adds another layer to the island's appeal.

Book a seat to Malta from EUR 95 one way.

PORTO

Portugal's second city enjoys a mild autumn, with days around 22°C and plenty of clear skies for exploring. The Ribeira district's colourful façades, the sweeping views from Dom Luís I Bridge, and the UNESCO-listed historical centre remain timeless draws. The recently restored Mercado do Bolhão has revived the heart of the city's food culture, while across the river in Vila Nova de Gaia, port wine cellars continue to welcome visitors year-round. Porto also lies at the centre of Portugal's growing natural wine movement, with vibrant wine bars and restaurants adding to its already rich gastronomic reputation. Foz do Douro's beaches, just a tram ride away, keep the summer feeling going.

Catch a flight to Porto from EUR 149 one way.

DUBAI

Dubai is the capital of chic, where futuristic skylines rise over golden beaches and warm Gulf waters. Even in October, the temperature averages 30°C, making it perfect for swimming, sunbathing, or exploring. Classic spots such as Jumeirah Beach, La Mer, and The Palm remain must-visits, while the Museum of the Future, which opened in 2022, has become a striking new landmark on the skyline. Beyond the coast, Dubai Creek links historical souks to contemporary waterfront districts, and a quick trip into the desert offers sweeping sunset views. The city's dining scene is as global as it gets, with every cuisine imaginable within easy reach.

Flights to Dubai start at EUR 245 one way.

airBaltic RECOGNISED IN THE 2025 FLYERS' CHOICE AWARDS

airBaltic has been named among the top airlines in the world in the 2025 Flyers' Choice Awards by Airline Ratings, earning third place in the Preferred Airline UK/Europe category. Standing alongside carriers such as British Airways and Lufthansa, this recognition highlights airBaltic's dedication to delivering a high-quality travel experience. Unlike expert-driven rankings, the Flyers' Choice Awards are determined entirely by passenger votes, reflecting what travellers value most, whether that's attentive cabin crew, well-designed uniforms, memorable aircraft livery, or overall peace of mind. The results provide a clear view of which airlines passengers themselves consider the best. The full list of winners is available at airlineratings.com.

GROUP TRAVEL MADE EASY

Planning a long-awaited family holiday, or finally making that friends' group trip happen? Whether it's a getaway with relatives or a bachelorette celebration abroad, airBaltic makes group travel simple and stress-free. For groups of six or more, our group tickets offer extra flexibility, convenience, and peace of mind. While group fares may be slightly higher than individual tickets, they come with valuable benefits:

- Free checked baggage – perfect for shared shopping hauls.
- Flexible name changes – if someone drops out at the last minute.
- Free seat reservations – so you can all sit together.
- Split payment options – pay part at booking and the rest later.

All these perks come with a discount, and online check-in is available up to five days before departure. Booking is quick – just fill out a short form at airbaltic.com and receive your offer within two working days.

BEST AUTUMN CITY BREAKS

As summer in the countryside winds down, the pull of the city becomes stronger – the trees along the streets start turning colour, cultural seasons are in full swing again, and cafés are ready to welcome you in from a passing shower. This autumn, airBaltic connects you to four city breaks where autumn adds new charm without losing any of the comfort.

Amsterdam is still in celebration mode as its 750th anniversary year draws to a close with a packed cultural calendar of exhibitions, concerts, and canal-side events. The city is made for exploring on two wheels, with golden-coloured trees along the canals leading you from the Rijksmuseum to the Van Gogh Museum and into tucked-away courtyards.

Similarly, autumn bike rides are a part of daily life in Copenhagen, where the pace is gentler but no less rewarding. Cycle along the harbourfront, stopping at Nyhavn's colourful 17th-century townhouses before heading to Rosenborg Castle and its gardens. The city's compact size makes it easy to combine waterfront views, royal history, and modern design in a single day.

Prefer bigger cities? Then London awaits with vast parks turning shades of gold, landmark museums, and one of the world's most diverse food scenes. The recently opened V&A Storehouse adds to a cultural line-up that already includes the British Museum and Tate Modern, while the West End keeps its reputation for world-class theatre.

Prague rounds out the list, its Gothic spires and Baroque façades looking especially striking in the softer light of the season. The recently opened Mucha Museum in the restored Savarin Palace offers a new angle on the city's Art Nouveau heritage, while Charles Bridge, Old Town Square, and Prague Castle remain timeless draws.

Hop over to Copenhagen from EUR 35 one way or fly to Amsterdam from EUR 75 one way! Reach London from EUR 33 one way or travel to Prague from EUR 65 one way!

THE airBaltic APP TURNS ONE

It's been a year since airBaltic launched its redesigned mobile application for airBaltic Club members, and the results speak for themselves. Available on both iOS and Android via the App Store and Google Play, the app brings together everything passengers need for a smoother journey: flight booking, check-in, mobile boarding passes, upcoming trip details, and instant push notifications with key flight updates.

In its first year, the app has been downloaded over 500,000 times, with 30,000 new downloads every month and up to 200,000 active monthly users. Since its launch, travellers have booked 391,000 flight segments through the app, generating 38.9 million euros in attributed revenue. The app now accounts for 16% of all airBaltic IBE bookings and achieves a conversion rate of over 10%. These figures confirm what passengers already know, namely, that the app is now an essential travel companion.

To get the best flight deals, look for prices with cherries on airbaltic.com!

All flight prices mentioned in this magazine apply to BASIC tickets that are booked in advance at www.airbaltic.com. Prices are subject to availability and not available for all flights or days. Special conditions apply. Prices can be changed unilaterally by airBaltic.

Why we choose airBaltic airBaltic is a convenient choice for many large businesses whose international operations require frequent flying. Our beloved clients share their favourite perks of airBaltic's corporate client programme.

◂ Pāvels Koliškins, SAP CX Sales Manager

THREE REASONS PEARL LATVIJA CHOOSES airBaltic's CORPORATE CLIENT PROGRAMME:

- Frequent flights and convenient flight times to a wide range of destinations
- Comfortable aircraft with sufficient legroom
- The possibility to stay connected with high-speed internet and continue working while in the sky

Pearl Latvija is part of Pearl Group, one of the leading official SAP partners in the Nordics and Baltics, with offices and customers across Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, and Latvia. The company specialises in implementing cloud-based ERP solutions, CRM systems, marketing automation platforms, digital commerce, and analytics. It services almost 200 customers across various industries, including retail, wholesale, and manufacturing, featuring well-known names such as Rimi Baltic, Atea, and many more. Altogether the company has more than 500 employees.

Pearl Latvija, located in Latvia, supports customers across the Baltic and Nordic countries. As a result, its employees frequently travel to cities such as Oslo, Stockholm, Helsinki, Copenhagen, Vilnius, and Tallinn. As the company's SAP CX Sales Manager Pāvels Koliškins explains, when a client's project is in an active stage, the key project team typically visits the client around once every three weeks. As most of these visits are only a day long, employees prefer taking a flight early in the morning and returning home on the same day. One of the main perks of flying with airBaltic is its convenient flight times. 'If I have a short meeting with SAP partners in Helsinki or Vilnius in the morning, I can be back in Riga in time to pick up my daughter from kindergarten,' says Koliškins.

Pearl Latvija has been using airBaltic's corporate client programme for 13 years now. One of the main reasons for such a long-lasting collaboration is the programme's accounting system, which allows the company to receive one unified invoice for flights. Also worth mentioning is the user-friendly interface, which lets Pearl Latvija easily select the employees who will take the particular flight and makes all transactions and bookings transparent and easy to follow. Long-term customers of airBaltic's corporate client programme also receive discounts and pre-set prices, allowing for easier budgeting.

'I'm a big fan of fast-track security and the business lounge – that way I can quickly proceed through check-in and security control and wait for my flight in a secluded space that's suitable for working and making business calls,' Koliškins adds.

In addition to the convenient flight times and simple accounting, Pearl Latvija greatly appreciates airBaltic's high level of customer service. Every client has a designated client manager who can help with last-minute changes, bringing additional trust and safety to the flight experience.

As part of its corporate client programme, airBaltic offers discounted prices to all of its destinations, with two pieces of checked baggage (23 + 23 kilograms) included. In addition, flights can be easily booked online or via a travel agency, and corporate customers have flexibility when it comes to unexpected changes, such as date or name changes, as well as ticket refunds. For even more comfort, corporate customers can use the fast-track security check at the Riga, Vilnius, Tallinn, Stockholm, Helsinki, Oslo, and Copenhagen airports, enjoy priority boarding, choose their favourite seat in the aircraft, and use Business class check-in at all airports, even if travelling in Corporate Economy Flex class.

Elevate your dining experience in airBaltic's Business Class with a specially created menu

Your journey deserves a menu that meets your personal needs. At airBaltic, Business class passengers can pre-order a variety of special dietary meals designed for medical, religious, or lifestyle needs and preferences.

These meals are an additional selection to our standard Business class menu and offer a tempting variety of appetisers, main courses, and desserts, all thoughtfully prepared to ensure your dietary requirements are met with care and precision. Whether it's for health, faith, or personal preference, we ensure your onboard dining is a reflection of your unique needs. And of course, all our meals are served with the elegance and attention you expect in airBaltic's Business class. Travel in comfort, dine with confidence!

We offer a wide selection of special dietary meal options, including vegan and vegetarian meals, gluten-intolerant choices, meals for those who are lactose-intolerant, low-fat and low-salt meals, fresh fruit platters, kosher-certified meals, and meals for children (2–12 years) and babies (0–2 years).

As part of our rotating Business class menu, you can look forward to indulging in carefully curated wholesome breakfast selections such as classic omelettes, creamy porridge, and potato or banana pancakes. Our hearty dinner options on afternoon and evening flights feature chicken and fish dishes, aromatic coconut basmati rice, and freshly cut fruits and vegetables. Dessert lovers can enjoy a refreshing dessert such as chia seeds with mango juice, green tea mochi, or delicious strawberry cakes and banana cakes.

Every dish is crafted with attention to quality and flavour, ensuring your inflight dining is a delightful part of your journey and, what's also important, adheres to the highest International Air Transport Association (IATA) safety standards. Our menu is reviewed annually, and we're always eager to incorporate your feedback for future enhancements.

If you're flying with children, select special Business class child meals when booking or up to two days before departure. We offer kids' favourites such as pancakes, pasta, chicken nuggets, and creamy mashed potatoes with sausages. Every meal is paired with a side of fresh vegetables. And of course, no child's meal is complete without a sweet treat – we make sure to include chocolate as a dessert. But what if you forgot to order? No problem! Your child will still enjoy a delicious standard Business class meal.

For our youngest guests (infants under 2), nutritious Hipp baby meals are offered upon request.

- Ordering your special dietary meal is easy! Simply place your request via airBaltic.com, the airBaltic Call Centre, our ticket offices, or booking agents.
- Hot or cold? We've got you covered! Cold special meals are available even on short flights (under 90 minutes). Hot special meals are served on flights lasting longer than 90 minutes.
- To ensure availability and optimal preparation, all special dietary meal orders must be made no later than 48 hours before departure.
- Although we take great care in meal preparation, we cannot assure the complete exclusion of certain ingredients, such as peanuts or peanut products. Passengers with serious allergies are kindly advised to take necessary medical precautions in advance.

A smooth, comfortable, and enjoyable experience with *airBaltic!

ACMI and charter service is one of the most important aspects of airBaltic's business. The airline offers its customers seamless operational services with a very cost-effective and modern fleet, giving it considerable advantages in this competitive market.

We invite you to meet the team who takes care of this part of airBaltic's business as they explain what kind of services the airline can offer.

Egle Miceikaite-Repnikova
ACMI Manager

WHAT IS ACMI-OUT AND WHY IS IT A BIG PART OF airBaltic's BUSINESS?

The ACMI-out segment is one of the core pillars of airBaltic's business model, and it has grown rapidly since the end of the Covid-19 pandemic. ACMI stands for aircraft, crew, maintenance, and insurance, and it means that we lease our aircraft, experienced maintenance workers, and crews, and also cover insurance, to some of Europe's leading carriers, including Swiss, Lufthansa, Brussels Airlines, Austrian Airlines, and more. This helps them cover capacity needs while maintaining the highest operational standards.

We also partner with tour operators to provide year-round charter flights to popular leisure destinations for the Baltic markets. In addition, we deliver ad-hoc charter capacity for private customers, sports teams, and corporate clients as well as military and government flights.

This makes us a unique airline, because we offer a wide range of services in addition to serving as the flag carrier of Latvia and operating scheduled flights to major hubs across Europe and beyond.

Toms Sakalausks
Charter and ACMI Manager

WHAT KIND OF SERVICES CAN airBaltic OFFER TO ITS PARTNERS?

We position ourselves as a premium ACMI provider. Not many airlines in this market can offer an all-Airbus A220-300 fleet that's both modern and fuel efficient, combined with highly experienced crews. Our operational reliability is a point of pride and is reflected in our strong punctuality and regularity. With over 30 years of hub-operation expertise, our permanently employed crews are trained to deliver precise, attentive, and customer-focused service, no matter whether passengers are flying on an airBaltic-operated flight or on behalf of one of our partners. In ACMI, every minute matters – and so does every smile. Attention to detail is deeply embedded in our service culture.

Ilze Kokta
Charter and ACMI Manager

Liene Kundecka
Charter and ACMI Manager

HOW EXPERIENCED IS airBaltic AT ACMI?

airBaltic brings three decades of scheduled operations experience, with a solid share of our fleet (currently around 30%) dedicated to ACMI contracts. We operate from four bases in Western Europe, providing capacity to major airlines across the continent. Our ACMI flights connect a diverse network of destinations across Europe, allowing partners to benefit from our operational flexibility and reach.

TESTIMONIALS FROM OUR CUSTOMERS

From SAS:
Scandinavian Airlines

airBaltic is performing a stable operation with high punctuality and regularity. Issues are mitigated as efficiently as possible. Customers are satisfied with the product served, and crews receive positive feedback.

From Swiss:

airBaltic is a long-standing, reliable, and flexible partner. Its modern product exceeds customer expectations, and its friendly international crews ensure a seamless, positive travel experience on board.

From Avico:

As a leading ACMI broker, Avico has frequently chartered airBaltic aircraft on behalf of several prestigious airline clients. Our clients are consistently drawn to airBaltic's high standards in terms of technical performance, corporate social responsibility, and customer service.

From Jetflite:

airBaltic has successfully and punctually performed numerous charter flights for us and our clients over the past years. It works with precision on details concerning passengers' requirements for service during flights. airBaltic has also flown charter flights for us outside their usual network with ease and comfort.

From Jet Team:

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to airBaltic for the flawless organisation of recent charter flights for a professional football team. The airline coordinated seamlessly with all airports involved, even arranging extended opening hours to meet the schedule.

Charter flights for sports teams require careful planning and attention to countless details, and the airBaltic team was in constant communication, resolving every question quickly and effectively. On board, the friendly crew delivered outstanding service with warmth and professionalism.

Dreams without borders

Future pilots from Brazil and Argentina take off with airBaltic.

Kevin Klau, Argentina

Bernardo Winkeler, Brazil

The dream of becoming a commercial pilot attracts students from across Europe, and even beyond, to the airBaltic Pilot Academy. While the Academy is open exclusively to holders of EU, EEA, or Swiss passports, some students from distant parts of the world, such as Brazil and Argentina, have joined the programme through dual citizenship, bringing unique global perspectives to the classroom and cockpit.

Bernardo Winkeler, from Brazil, has followed airBaltic for years. 'I've always been an avgeek,' he says. 'Even back when airBaltic flew Boeing 737s and 737 Classics, I loved its fleet and livery – especially the green and blue. Even from Brazil, I kept an eye on the airline's growth.'

When airBaltic introduced the Airbus A220-300 and launched the Pilot Academy with a state-of-the-art fleet of Diamond DA40 and DA42 aircraft, Winkeler began planning: 'I immediately started preparing, both personally and financially, to pursue this opportunity.'

Kevin Klau, from Argentina, discovered the Academy while working as cabin crew for an airline based in Dubai. 'I was searching for a serious flight school in Europe. What stood out about the airBaltic Pilot Academy was not only the strong airline connection and modern training setup, but also how quickly and professionally it responded. Some schools took months; airBaltic replied within hours.'

What convinced Klau was the structured career path offered by the Academy – a clear opportunity to become a first officer at airBaltic, supported by the airline's loan programme. 'That gave me the confidence that this was a serious, future-focused place to train,' he says.

For both Winkeler and Klau, moving to Latvia has been a rewarding and life-changing experience. In a peaceful and focused learning environment, they've been able to fully dedicate themselves to their passion.

Their stories reflect the truly international spirit of the airBaltic Pilot Academy – a place where future pilots from 22 countries, and a world of perspectives, come together to take flight.

CALVIN KLEIN
Eternity Moment
EDP for her, 50 ml

Inspired by the natural beauty of sea shells glistening in the sand on a warm summer day; washed up by the waves, they lie in the sun, waiting to be found.

Šis smaržūdens tika radīts, iedvesmojoties no jūras gliemežvāku dabiskā skaistuma, kad tie mirdz smiltīs siltā vasaras dienā. Viļņu izskaloti, tie guļ saulē un gaida, kad kāds tos atradīs.

EDP for her, 60 ml

Embodies the quintessential Italian concept of la dolce vita, exuding an infectious enthusiasm for life. Its lightness gracefully accompanies a woman throughout her day, accentuating her spontaneity while highlighting her sensuality and femininity with a touch of classic elegance.

Itāļu "saldās dzīves" koncepcijas iemiesojums, kas izstaro dzīvesprieku un entuziasmu. Aromāta vieglums graciozi pavada sievieti visas dienas garumā, uzsverot viņas spontanitāti, vienlaikus izceļot jutekliskumu un sievišķību ar klasiskas elegances pieskārienu.

The aromatic, woody and ambery fragrance opens with a vital blend of pink pepper, artemisia, sage and cardamom. In the heart note, lavender, cedarwood, leather, cinnamon and sandalwood merge into a powerful melody. The base notes of iris, vanilla, tonka, patchouli and balsam fir leave a lasting, elegant impression. A fragrance masterpiece that combines powerful masculinity and sensual sophistication in perfect harmony.

Koksnes un dzintara aromāts atklājas ar rozā piparu, artemīzijas ziedu, salvijas un kardamona notīm. Seko sirds nošu kombinācija, kas sastāv no lavandas, ciedra, ādas, kanēļa un sandalkoka aromātiem. Pamata notis veido īriss, vaniļa, tonkas pupiņas, pačūlija un balzama baltegle. Iespaids ir ilgstošs un elegants. Aromātu šedevrs, kurā harmoniski apvienojas vīrišķība un jutekliska izsmalcinātība.

Feminine sweetness, luxurious soft notes: Mandarin and blueberry form a fragrant duet in the top note, playing with the rich fruitiness of jasmine and orange blossom. Underpinned with the comforting warmth of vanilla, musk and sandalwood, while cashmere wood and icing sugar give the chords a delicate finish with their extravagance. Pink pepper provides the subliminal wow effect.

Sievišķīgs aromāts ar greznām un maigām notīm: mandarīna un melleņu duets augšējā notī saspēlējas ar jasmīna un apelsīna ziedu aromātu. Pamattoni veido vaniļas, muskusa un sandalkoka mierinošais siltums, savukārt kašmira koksne un pūdercukurs piešķir aromātam īpašu maigumu un ekstravaganci. Rozā pipari panāk tā dēvēto "wow efektu".

PASAŽIERIEM AR ALERĢISKĀM REAKCIJĀM

- Esiet piesardzīgi, ja jums ir alerģija pret kādu no pārtikas produktiem. Mēs neuzņemamies atbildību par alerģisku reakciju no pārtikas produktiem, ko esat patērējuši vai ar ko esat nonākuši saskarsmē lidmašīnā.
- Ja jums ir īpašas prasības attiecībā uz pārtiku, varat izvēlēties un pasūtīt maltīti pirms lidojuma vietnē www.airbalticmeal.com

Fast, friendly, and considerate: the best way to connect

We're happy to offer you high-speed internet on board! To ensure a pleasant experience for everyone, please follow these guidelines:

Device compatibility: You can connect to the airBaltic Starlink network using most Android, iOS, macOS, and Windows devices.

Video and voice calls: Feel free to make calls, but please use headphones to avoid disturbing others.

Video recording: You're welcome to record videos as long as they don't disrupt or infringe on the privacy of fellow passengers or crew.

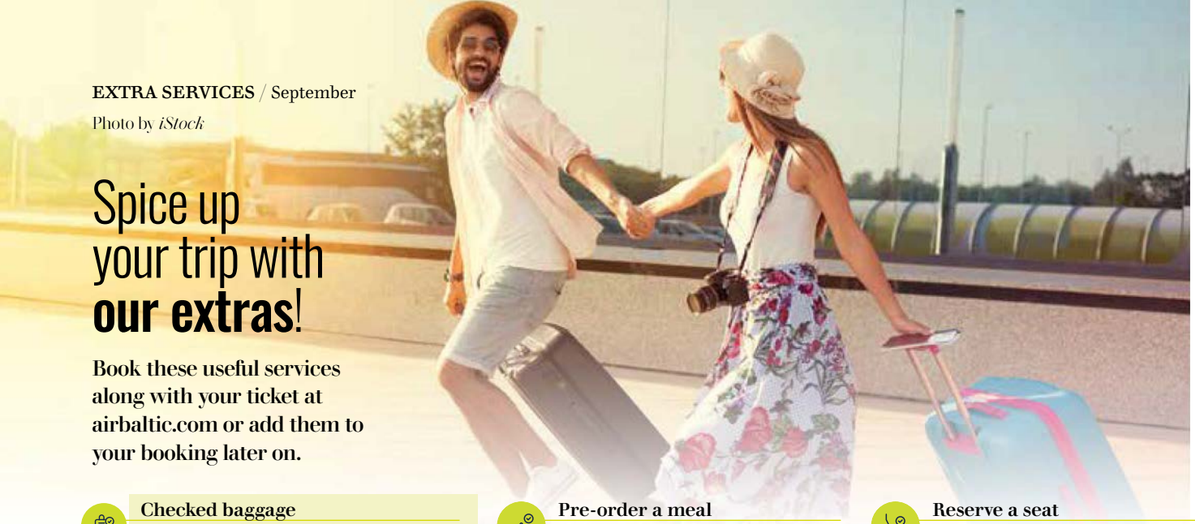

Respectful use: Set your device to silent or vibrate mode and avoid activities that could disturb others.

More information and rules about internet onboard here:

For any suggestions on our product selection, please write to / Ja jums ir ieteikumi vai komentāri par piedāvāto preču klāstu, lūdzam tos sūtīt uz e-pastu

Spice up your trip with our extras!

Book these useful services along with your ticket at airbaltic.com or add them to your booking later on.

Checked baggage

Add checked baggage if you want to take up to 23 kilograms, including liquids over 100 ml, which are not allowed in cabin baggage. Baggage price varies dynamically depending on the selected route.

If your flight departs from the Riga airport, you are most welcome to use the Late-night check-in service. Check in your baggage the evening before your flight (from 7 pm till 10 pm) and enjoy a relaxed start to the journey the next day.

Flight cancellation and name change options

For your peace of mind, add the option to cancel your reservation and get a full refund in the form of an airBaltic gift card in case your travel plans change. This service costs from EUR 14.99 per passenger per direction.

Or add the option to change the passenger name on your ticket for a fee from EUR 9.99 per direction.

The Cancellation option is available only for Economy BASIC and Economy CLASSIC tickets, whereas the Name change option is available for Economy BASIC, Economy CLASSIC, Economy FLEX and Business EXPERIENCE tickets.

Heavy cabin baggage

You can take on board one cabin bag (55x40x23 cm) and one personal item (40x30x15 cm) with a total weight of eight kilograms free of charge.

However, sometimes you may need to carry more but want to avoid waiting for a checked suitcase at the baggage belt. Now you can add an extra four kilograms to your cabin baggage for an additional fee and take a total of 12 kilograms on board.

Please note: If you purchase extra cabin baggage weight, your cabin baggage must still remain within the above-mentioned dimensions. Exceeding the allowed cabin baggage weight or size limits will cost EUR 30 at the airport.

Pre-order a meal

Order a meal before your flight and be among the first served on board. Choose our great value meals, starting from EUR 4.99. When pre-ordering meals during flight booking on airBaltic.com, you can select up to 5 meals and 5 drinks per passenger. If you're adding a pre-order meal to an existing reservation (via manage my booking, online check-in, the call centre or travel agencies), you will be able to choose from predefined meal sets.

All meals are freshly prepared and packed separately under strict hygiene standards. Special vegetarian and kids' meals are also available.

Upgrade to Business class

If business class seats are available on your flight, you can place a bid for a chance to get an upgrade to business class. The more you offer, the better your odds of success! The bidding process remains open until a set time before departure, which depends on the airport. Upgrade with bidding is only valid for the flight for which you have made the offer and for all passengers in the booking. Once you have received an invitation email, review it – submit your bidding offer – fill in payment details – check details and accept terms and conditions – then get a confirmation email with your bid submission.

No later than twelve hours before the flight, passengers will be notified if their bid has been accepted. You'll only be charged if your bid is accepted, ensuring you don't pay for an upgrade you don't receive.

Fast track in Riga

Add fast-track security check to your booking for only EUR 9.99 and skip the security lines at Riga Airport.

Reserve a seat

Are you a window person, or do you favour more legroom? Want to avoid the middle seat or sit together with your family? Or do you want to sit in the front to be the first off the plane?

Whichever it is, you can secure your favourite seat in advance starting from EUR 9.99.

Special equipment

Whatever your hobby, you don't have to live without it during your trip. Take your bicycle, skis, or golf bag with you from EUR 39.99.
* Guitars, cellos, and other fragile musical instruments that do not fit in cabin baggage can be transported on the seat next to the passenger if a special ticket has been purchased for their transportation.

Assistance for children flying alone*

If you are unable to accompany your children, our crew can take care of them from the time they check in to the moment when they meet a parent or guardian at the destination airport. Unaccompanied minor service costs from EUR 60 and is available for children aged 5 to 17.

Travelling with pets*

Your furry friend can travel in the cabin if its crate fits under the seat in front of you. Maximum dimensions for PETC are 55x40x23 cm and maximum weight is 8 kg (pet together with box/bag). Larger animals are placed in the cargo hold during the flight.

*Book these services at airBaltic ticket offices or via the call centre: T: +371 67006006, reservations@airbaltic.com.

Ticket types on airBaltic flights

Whenever you reserve an airBaltic flight, you can choose from five different ticket types depending on your needs and wishes: Economy BASIC, Economy CLASSIC, Economy FLEX, Business EXPERIENCE and BUSINESS.

The date can be changed for all tickets. This gives our guests extra flexibility and security when planning their trips.

Check out the chart to see which services are included in each ticket type, and choose the one that's best for you.
